CONFLICT WITH STATE TRAFFIC LAW REVEALED

Solicitor Says Measure Can't Be Submitted To Council Tuesday Night.

BLACK BACKS RULING

Attorneys Point To Uniform Code Effective In Ohio on Sept. 6.

Councilman George C. Kyle's proposed ordinance to outlaw excessive blowing of automobile horns in Mansfield hit a snag today when City Solicitor M. D. Ward, jr., said that such an ordinance would be in conflict with existing state laws.

Ward said that it would be impossible to present an ordinance at tomorrow night's council meeting. Kyle, when informed of the delay, said he would confer with Ward to learn if any anti-noise ordinance could be passed without crossing state laws.

Sufficient laws are now on the city books to prevent excessive noise-making, if they are enforced, according to Ward. An old ordinance gives police the power to arrest persons for "ringing gongs, blowing whistles or horns, using loud speakers" and other devices to cause excessive noise.

Kyle asked Ward Saturday to draw up anti-noise legislation that would include special features carried in New York City and Memphis laws making it necessary to apply brakes and be in the process of slowing autos before horns may be blown.

Ward said that Kyle's ordinance would be "all right in New York or Tennessee but that Ohio laws made it impossible." The solicitor pointed out that the state traffic code makes it necessary for drivers to blow a horn while passing another car and before backing. Ward said that he would investigate all conflicts with state laws before drawing up a city ordinance.

MEET TONIGHT

Farmers To Form Permanent Body on Wheat Protest.

Richland county farmers who have been fighting the government's AAA wheat program for the past eight weeks will consolidate their campaign activities at a mass meeting at 8 p. m. today in the Madison high school auditorium.

The protesting farmers are expected to form a permanent organization, electing officers and setting up by-laws. A temporary organization, headed by Albert Ammeter, Washington township, has been active for the past three weeks.

Principal speaker will be Russell T. Kiko, Canton, chairman of the Ohio Farmers' Protective association.

Addressing a meeting of 600 protesting farmers Sunday at Kenton, Congressman Frederick C. Smith, Marion, representing the Eighth district, said the wheat marketing section of the federal crop control program tends to make the entire program compulsory upon all farmers.

New U. S.-Russ Trade Pact Reported Drawn

Expected to Increase American Aid to Soviet Union.

BRITAIN AGREES

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A new trade agreement between the United States and Soviet Russia will be signed within the next few days, an authoritative source disclosed today.

The new agreement will provide for increased American aid to the Soviet Union. It will replace an existing agreement that expires the middle of this week.

Negotiations for the new agreement have been virtually completed. They have been carried out by Soviet Ambassador Constantine Oumansky and Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles, aided by Loy Henderson, Russian expert in the state department.

While the new trade agreement will not enable the Soviet Union to purchase all the supplies it would like to obtain in this country, it will mark a considerable advance over the existing agreement.

The new agreement is being concluded in the spirit of the government's policy of rendering all possible aid to the Soviet Union in its resistance against German aggression.

The psychological effect of the new agreement in bolsering the morale of the Russian people is expected to be greater than the practical effects it may have in getting needed war supplies to the Soviet.

Russia would like to purchase millions of dollars worth of machine tools and actual implements of war, but the defense requirements of this country will not enable the government to grant in full the requests which have been made by the Soviet government.

However, arrangements are being made to divert to Russia some

GET REPRIEVE FROM HEAT WAVE

Mansfielders Wait Predicted Showers as Temperature Keeps Under Average.

Another day's reprieve from a scorching heatwave which paralyzed Mansfielders last week was promised today by the weatherman who predicted increasing cloudiness tonight and showers for tomorrow.

The mercury crept above the 90 mark yesterday and residents feared the return of the blistering heat. High for the day was 91 degrees but night brought a low of 53. The day's average was 71.2 degrees, 2.2 below the 16-year average.

Only a trace of rain was reported with .06 inches falling during the entire week-end.

Starting from its 53-degree low, the mercury had climbed to 81 by noon today. Higher temperatures were expected before the predicted cloudiness cuts down the heat tonight.

High temperatures throughout the state drove hundreds of Ohioans to swimming places. Six per-

EMERGENCY GAS BURNS CYCLIST

JOHNSTOWN, Pa.—(U.P.)—Kay Gregg, 26-year-old motorcycle enthusiast from Bunside, Pa., was in a hospital today—a victim of the gasoline curfew.

Gregg attended motorcycle races in Fairmont, W. Va., yesterday. Because he was afraid of running out of gas on the trip home, he carried an extra can of fuel.

As he sped along the road, a spark from a cigaret he was smoking ignited the can of gasoline. He was burned about the chest, arms and face. He was reporter in "fair" condition.

County Gets Off Lightly As Traffic Kills 22 In State

Richland county escaped without a major traffic accident over the week-end as highway tragedies claimed at least 22 lives over the state.

Three persons received minor injuries in two accidents in the county. Two were injured in a freak mishap on Main street in Bellville. Two Akron residents were hurt at Galion when their car collided head-on with another. A Mansfielder suffered minor cuts and bruises when he was struck by a car at a downtown intersection.

A passenger's arm protruding from the right side of a car was believed to have saved John Walter, jr., eight-year-old Bellville boy, from serious injury when he ran into the side of the car in Bellville at 6:30 p. m. Sunday.

The boy escaped with a bump on his head and other minor bruises. The physician who treated him said he probably would have been struck by the door handle and injured seriously had the arm not cushioned the impact.

The passenger whose arm helped to protect the youth was W. D. John, Mt. Vernon, R. D. 3, riding with Lloyd Kodger, Mt. Vernon, R. D. 4. John's right elbow was bruised where it struck the boy's head.

Deputy Sheriff Glenn Freeman said Kodger swerved his car to

ORDER DEFERRED

Commission Delays Edict To Ohio Fuel Gas Company.

COLUMBUS (AP)— Chairman George C. McConnaughey indicated today indefinite deferment of a state utilities commission order to the Ohio Fuel Gas company to cease by Aug. 14 the distribution of mixed gas in areas with contracts calling only for natural gas.

McConnaughey said the commission probably would not hear a company protest against the order until all commission members are present.

One member, Harry M. Miller, now is on vocation. He will be followed by the others and a full membership meeting is not expected until mid-September.

A law provides that a commission order is automatically postponed when a protest is filed not less than 10 days before it becomes effective, if the commission does not hold a hearing and either reject or sustain the protest.

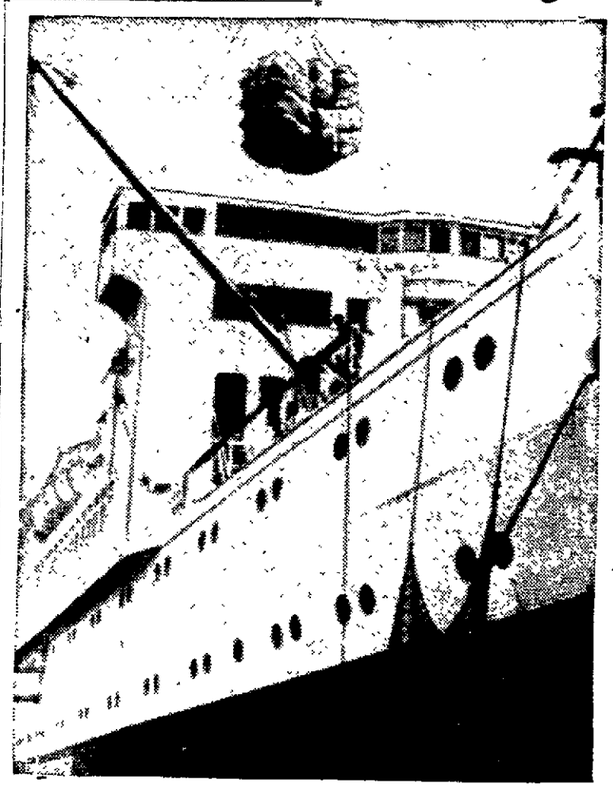
Liner Unloads Silk Cargo



As Mansfielders scrambled to buy up stocks of silk clothing articles, over the week-end, what is probably the last cargo of silk that will reach the U. S. in a long time was being unloaded at San Francisco where the Japanese liner Tatuta Maru docked after hovering off port for six days, while the Japanese government awaited assurances that the ship would not be impounded by the U. S. The cargo, valued at $2,500,000 has been taken into custody by U. S. customs agents in line with the government policy of reserving all silk for military use. The silk, shown being unloaded by steam winches in the picture above, will be shipped by special train to New Jersey.

City Stores Restrict Sales of Silk Hosiery

One Merchant Reports Nylon Hose Gone, Others Say Stocks Dwindle; Rayon Being 'Earmarked.'

Besieged by calls for silk hosiery, Mansfield stores today began restricting the number of pairs to customers in an attempt to make their dwindling stocks go further.

The buying rush was precipitated by the government ban on the use of raw silk for civilian items which went into effect at midnight Saturday. Some of the city's stores today limited customers to three pairs of silk hose and one pair of nylon stockings. One merchant said he had sold out of nylon and had only a few pairs of silk stockings left, so there was no need in attempting to restrict sales now.

Merchants explained that stocks of nylon hose are smaller and orders are harder to get, accounting for the restrictions on their sale.

Nylon, a silk substitute which came on the market only a few months ago, is expected to help fill the gap left by the silk ban, but the demand for nylon already is greater than the production and merchants predicted it will be difficult to get nylon stockings until production facilities are stepped up.

Only one of the city's principal women's apparel stores said it still had a "fair supply" of silk stockings left today. The store was making no attempt to restrict sales.

Most merchants said they were receiving telephone calls from women customers, asking them to lay aside several pairs of silk hose. Stores, however, were paying little attention to the "lay-aside" requests, most merchants requiring customers

SABOTAGE?

Precision Instruments Stolen at Detroit Defense Plant.

DETROIT—(AP)—A tool-making plant concentrating on defense work was virtually helpless today because of theft of its precision instruments, and a company official said he suspected sabotage.

Thieves entered the Majestic Tool and Manufacturing corporation plant early Sunday, tied up the watchman, ransacked cabinets and tool boxes and stole between 300 and 400 micrometers as well as other precision instruments.

"This raid appears to be more than just an every day robbery," said John W. Parker, corporation president. "It looks like the work of saboteurs."

The company is working on tool orders for the Frankfort, Ky., and Springfield, O., arsenals.

AIM TO PASS TAX BILL BY CLOSE OF DAY

President's Move Strengthens Chances For Cutting Out Joint Return Clause.

SPURNED BY COMMITTEE

House Chairman 'Surprised' By Suggestion To Cut Exemption Limits.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The house ways and means committee today rejected proposals to substitute higher income surtaxes for the mandatory joint husband-wife income tax return provision of the $3,529,200,000 tax bill, should this requirement be eliminated by the house.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Passage by nightfall of the $3,529,200,000 tax bill, stiffest in national history, was the goal of house leaders today but President Roosevelt appeared to have strengthened chances for elimination of the provision requiring all married persons to file joint income tax returns.

In an eleventh-hour appeal to the house ways and means committee, made public Saturday, the chief executive suggested three changes in the revenue measure, including modification of the joint return provision so as to exempt income actually earned by either husbands or wives, but the committee rejected all three proposals by "decisive majorities."

Nevertheless, informed legislators forecast that as a result of the president's action, the already strong opposition to the joint return provision could count on picking up additional votes.

Mr. Roosevelt also suggested committee revision of the excess profits tax so as to hit certain types of wealthy corporations harder and the lowering of existing individual income tax exemptions from $800 for single persons to $750 and from $2,000 for married persons to $1,500.

Informing the president of the committee's decision to make no further changes in the bill, Chairman Doughton (D-NC) said he had been "very greatly surprised" by the executive's criticism of the measure regarding the lowering of individual income tax exemptions.

On that point, the president had said "most Americans who are in the lowest income brackets are willing and proud to chip in directly" to help finance the defense program "even if their individual contributions are very small in terms of dollars."

Mr. Roosevelt was most emphatic in his recommendation for elimination of the so-called average earnings method of computing corporation excess profits, contending that many frims which had been earning as much as 50 per cent on their invested capital for the past several years would, under that plan, be able to escape any increase in excess profits taxation this year.

Moscow Admits Nazi Gains In Ukraine Plunge

Reports Say British Mass Large Naval Force In Arctic; Rumor Finland to Be Used As Base For Allied Invasion Army.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—British military quarters watched closely today the development of a German double thrust on Kiev, in the belief that the high command, its armies stopped on the Leningrad and Moscow fronts, might be staking everything for a quick conquest of the Ukraine.

(By Associated Press)

German troops lunging past the bloody Zhitomir sector on the southern front have advanced within 50 miles of Kiev, capital of the Soviet Ukraine, the Russians admitted today, while both sides told of new slaughter by the thousands in the 44-day-old struggle.

Adolf Hitler's high command also claimed new success on the vital central front guarding Moscow.

"The bulk of Soviet armed forces trapped east of Smolensk now have been destroyed. The remainder is facing dissolution," a German communique said.

Smolensk is 230 miles west of Moscow.

Nazi dispatches said 2,300 Russians were killed, thousands taken prisoner and 71 tanks captured in an unstated northern area. This may have been the same action reported by the German high command, which said 10,000 Red army troops were taken prisoner west of Lake Peipus in Estonia, on the northern front below Leningrad, along with many tanks, cannon and supplies.

The Russians countered with a report that a Soviet tank column smashed through German forces near "N" town on the northwest front, killing at least 1,000 Nazi soldiers and littering the battlefield with the wreckage of more than 100 shell-torn tanks, armored cars and quantities of field artillery.

Meanwhile, a flood of reports —unconfirmed but officially unchallenged—persisted in London that Britain would soon dispatch an expeditionary force to open up a northern European front, possibly in Finland.

London newspapers carried advices from Goteborg, Sweden, that a large British naval force was already in the Arctic, and Minister of Supply Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express carried the headline:

"All the Axis is asking where we will invade."

On the African war front, British Middle East headquarters reported that German and Italian troops were withdrawing from advanced positions in the 4-months-old siege of the British garrison at Tobruk, Libya.

"The enemy has apparently refused contact by withdrawing from forward positions under cover of

FDR VACATIONS

Aboard White House Yacht 'Somewhere on Atlantic.'

NEW LONDON, Conn.— (AP) — The White House yacht Potomac rode the Atlantic ocean today, carrying sea-loving President Roosevelt on a vacation cruise.

The movements of the Potomac were screened in secrecy after the chief executive was piped aboard at the naval submarine base here last night and she sailed away for a week or 10 days on salt water. The White House had asked that press and radio refrain from reporting the boat's position.

A special train which brought Mr. Roosevelt from Washington to New London was moved to Boston and held there so he could hurry back to the capital should world events dictate that the cruise be cut short.

Bicycle Owners Have Two Days To Get Licenses

Bicycle-owners in Mansfield will be required to obtain license plates for their vehicles within the next two days, Frend C. Boals, traffic commissioner, announced today.

Boals said that the five members of the new traffic squad would handle the registration at police headquarters in the Municipal building today, tomorrow and Wednesday.

Approximately 2,500 bicycles are ridden in the city, Boals estimates, but the greater part of them are already registered with the police and licensed.

Licensing is held regularly to permit police to keep a constant check on stolen bicycles. Twenty-five cents is charged for a license which is good for the life of the bicycle. A small charge is made for transferring the license to another bike.

Boals said today that few bicycle owners had applied for their license as yet and warned that they must be bought by Thursday. Bikes may be registered between 8 a. m. and 4 p. m.

Mansfielder Saves Friends As Lake Boat Springs Leak

Five Mansfielders almost lost their lives yesterday when a speed boat owned by Herbert Slough, life insurance salesman, became partly filled with water and nearly sank three miles from shore in Lake Erie near Huron.

Slough said the quick thinking of William Lake, 424 Shepard road, saved the lives of the men. Lake grabbed some clothing and an ice pick and clogged a hole torn in the bottom of the boat after a set pin came loose, allowing the crankshaft to drive a hole in the flooring.

Slough said the pin had been improperly inserted by a mechanic repairing the boat.

James M. Hill, president of Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, Roy Hallam, Fay Fairman and Lake, all Empire executives, were with Slough when the accident occurred.

Even with the leak stopped Slough said the boat's position was dangerous. Their motor was not connected with the propeller and the men had no means of moving the craft.

Slough said today it "would have been mighty thick, if a blow darkness," a British communique said.

MOSCOW ADMITS NAZI GAINS IN UKRAINE DRIVE

Reports Say British Mass Large Naval Force In Arctic.

Axis warplanes were busy attacking other British strongholds in North Africa, however. Seventeen persons were killed and 50 wounded last night in a raid on the Suez canal—the heaviest casualties yet recorded there — and raid alarms sounded in Cario, Alexandria, Port Said and in several Egyptian provinces.

The Germans' grave new threat to Kiev and to the rich granaries of the Ukraine was conceded in a Red army bulletin.

Nazi legions, it indicated, had swept past the bitterly-contested town of Zhitomir on both sides, driving to the vicinity of Bel Tserkov, barely 50 miles south of Kiev and Korosten, 80 miles northwest of the provincial capital.

In these advances, the German high command said Nazi and Hungarian panzer columns had cut off vital railroad lines of the Red armies.

DNB, the official German news agency, said a newly-arrived Italian expeditionary force would join the battle on the southern front within a few days, reinforcing German, Rumanian and Hungarian forces striving to conquer the Ukraine treasure-house.

The Germans declared the campaign was still "bewegungskrieg" —a war of movement—but DNB published a dispatch from one of its correspondents entitled "trench warfare also yields results."

By contrast, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia declared flatly:

"It is already obvious that Hitler's blitzkrieg trump, on which he staked everything, is beaten.

"Our resistance is growing and gaining strength. Fresh Red army forces are continously coming to life . . . the struggle of the Red army with the Fascist hordes is entering a new phase of violent and decisive battles."

Moscow had its 11th air raid of the war last night, but the Russians said few bombers got through and little damage was caused."

The British reported renewing their attacks on Axis shipping to North Africa and said submarines sank two supply ships totaling 7,600 tons and torpedoed an Italian floating dock and a cruiser, which the British identified as either the 7,238-ton Eugenio Di Savoia or her sister ship, the Emanuele Filiberto Duca D'Aosta.

RAF Pounds Nazi Capital in 50th Raid

LONDON—(AP)—British bombers pounded Germany and occupied France day and night over the week-end, carrying their heavy offensive to a peak with a Saturday night mass attack on Berlin.

There were new forays into Western Germany last night.

Despite unfavorable weather, the raids last night carried to Hanover and Frankfort, where industries and communications were the objectives, as well as to the docks at Calais.

Only a few German bombers, meanwhile, made scattered flights over Britain. In the northeast some casualties were caused when houses were demolished German planes were reported off the south coast early this morning.

Berliners "got their money's worth," as one pilot expressed it Saturday night when an estimated 200 to 300 British planes gave the German capital its 50th raid.

The British air ministry described the raid as "terrific."

Hamburg's docks, industry and railways took what was described as equal punishment and raiders also gave shipbuilding Kiel and German-occupied Cherbourg rakings.

Nazis Term Warning To France 'Stupid'

BERLIN—(U.P.)—A Nazi spokesman today called the latest American warning to France against Axis collaboration in the French colonies "partly, threatening, partly impertinent and partly stupid."

The spokesman said the American statement was "simply bursting with ignorance of European affairs" and added that the "French press will comment" on the U. S. declaration this afternoon.

He said that the American statement was "characterized by a negation of normal healthy reactions between European nations and by continuation of a purely mechanical mental attitude toward European matters and of United States attempts to interfere therein."

Vichy Studies New Axis Demands

VICHY —(U.P.)— Observers believed today that no change in French-American diplomatic relations would result from the government's reaction to new Axis demands for closer collaboration.

The government was studying a statement of Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles, hinting that a break in relations would follow if France acceded to new German demands. There was no official comment.

(It was understood that Germany had demanded the right to "protect" French African possessions, particularly strategic Dakar, and the return of Pierre Laval to power.)

A special Sunday meeting of the council of ministers approved the stand of Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and Vice-Premier Admiral Jean Francois Darlin in resisting encroachment "from any direction" on French colonial possessions.

A clarification of policy on collaboration with the Axis was expected shortly but it was believed there would be no direct reply to Welles because his statement was made at a press conference and not to the government.

Press Chief Paul Marion quoted Petain as follows.—

"Thus far, I have given France only my person. I am ready, for the salvation of my country, to give my popularity."

torney, announced his agreement with Ward's decision. In a letter to the News-Journal, the attorney wrote that although he favored the useless horn blowing campaign that a city ordinance limiting it to occasions when the brakes are applied would be illegal.

"Your campaign to curb useless horn blowing meets with my approval," said Black. "However, I trust this city will not pass an ordinance limiting horn blowing to occasions when the driver is applying the brakes. Such an ordinance would be invalid and contrary to state law. State statutes control, and city ordinances must be consistent with them."

Black pointed out that "it would be difficult, when going around another car, to apply the brakes in order to blow the horn."

Both Ward and Black called attention to the new Ohio traffic code which becomes effective Sept. 6.

"It is applicable throughout the state," said Black, "including within cities, and specifically provides that no local authority shall enact or enforce any regulation in conflict with it."

Section 6307-27 of the act requires that the operator of a vehicle overtaking another proceeding in the same direction to signal the latter before passing. Section 37 requires ample warning from a driver before backing a car. Section 38 requires that a driver give a "clearly audible signal by sounding the horn" when turning from a direct course on a highway, if any pedestrian or traffic may be affected by the changed course.

Black said that failure to blow the horn in these instances would be a misdemeanor and would subject the driver to damages for negligence if such failure was the cause of an accident.

Berserk Gunman Wounds Six Others, Self.

SEATTLE —(INS)— Police today sought a possible accomplice of a holdup man whose berserk gunfire in a Seattle tavern early Sunday morning left three men dead and seven wounded.

Three of the wounded, including the gunman himself, were in a critical condition. Slain were Monte F. Brown, 61, publisher of the Seattle Journal of Commerce, Gus Galmatos, 41, bartender, and John Linder, patron of the tavern.

Held in a hospital under police guard, with a 50-50 chance to recover, was James Green, 28, who admitted he had started the shooting in a holdup attempt. He was shot in the head by a policeman and beaten over the head with a stool.

Rush Holt Asserts Referendum Should Decide War Issue.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. —(U.P.)— Rush D. Holt, former U. S. senator from West Virginia says the question of whether the U. S. should go to war should be submitted in a national referendum.

He charged that a small minority was pushing the nation closer to war through "subterfuge and hypocrisy."

vital war supplies originally intended for Great Britain, and the new trade agreement is expected to facilitate the shipment of the goods.

Diversion of the war supplies has been decided upon with the consent of Great Britain, which is being consulted in connection with all proposed American aid to the Soviet Union.

A list of Soviet needs was presented to this government by General Alexander Golikov, deputy chief of the Soviet general staff and head of the Soviet military mission to the United States.

It is expected that American aid to the Soviet Union may be further increased following the return to Washington from Moscow of Harry L. Hopkins, who conferred with Premier Josef Stalin on Russia's needs from this country.

PURGE ASKED

UAW Urged To Purge Ranks of Communists and Fascists.

BUFFALO, N. Y. — (INS) — A group of CIO leaders, headed by Richard T. Frankensteen and Walter P. Reuther, today called on the sixth annual convention of the United Automobile Workers of America to purge the union ranks of all Communists and Fascists.

The Frankensteen - Reuther group urged a constitutional amendment barring all "proven members of the Nazi, Fascist and Communist party from holding office in any local union and to remove all employees of the International union who are proven members of those parties."

A canvass of the delegates of the 610,000 members of the union, which embraces the American automobile and aviation industry, indicated that the anti-Red resolution would be adopted, carrying an amendment barring also members of the Socialist party.

SIX CONTESTS LIVEN PRIMARY IN CRAWFORD

Bucyrus Mayor Opposed For Nomination on Dem Ticket.

BUCYRUS—With only six contests in the entire county little interest has been manifest in the primaries, which are just a week away. All the contests are on the Democratic ballot.

In Bucyrus Mayor William F. Whiteamire is opposed by George B. Klingenberger and Esther M. Dobbins, city treasurer, has as her opponent, Mrs. Nell A. Carrigan.

Galion has three contests with Lawrence H. Neuman opposing Otto Pfeifer for the post of council president. Seeking places as councilmen-at-large are four candidates for the three offices, William Barr, Arthur A. Connor, W. H. Kunkel and Harry L. Volk. For councilman of the first ward O. W. Cronenwett will be opposed by George C. Treisch.

Other Bucyrus candidates whose names appear on the Democratic ballot are: A. J. Flickinger, president of council; J. A. Hull, James R. Kehrer, Chester E. Sharrock, councilmen - at - large; Harry J. Carle, first ward councilman; Bruce E. Sharrock, second ward; Edgar H. Carter, third ward, and Carl E. Light, fourth ward. Harold B. Metcalf is the Democratic candidate for city solicitor. All are incumbent except Kehrer who is seeking the post held by Walter C. Michael who is not a candidate for re-election.

Republicans, most of whom are newcomers in politics, included the following candidates: Harold F. Schneider, president of council; James E Jones, C. Victor Vollrath, Cline W. Warnock, councilmen-at-large, Bruce D. Foght, J. E. Huggins, Rollen Koons and Edward J. Dager, ward councilmen, and Paul Kennedy, city solicitor.

In Galion Democrats on the ballot include William Amann, mayor; George Cook and Richard Ganshorn, ward councilmen; Daniel Kreiter, treasurer, and George H. Davies, city solicitor. Republican candidates are: W. M. King, mayor; G. M. Badgley, president of council; Merrit C. McElroy, Mack Berry and Thomas Maidens, ward councilmen, and W. W. Wheatcraft, councilman-at-large.

Republican candidates in Crestline include: John Blaising and Hardin Jones, ward councilmen. Democratic candidates are Marie Schill, city clerk; Howard F. Foltz, Paul A. Furry, George Glauer, Walter H. Hoffman, C. W. Kindinger and Oscar P. Tracht, councilmen; C. E. Boals, John W. Hoke and Levi Perrott, board of public affairs.

WEST

SIX, SEVEN MILES UP! In air no man can breathe —and live! Motors — now even pilots are "supercharged." On the stationary bicycle (above) Marshall Headle, chief test pilot of Lockheed, breathes pure oxygen for 30 minutes before a test flight in Lockheed's new interceptor — one of America's newest high-altitude fighters.

CLIMBS A MILE A MINUTE—dives at speeds which are Army secrets. They call her "Lightning." Test pilot Headle clambers into the cockpit, switches from a pocket oxygen flask to his cabin supply, and streaks for the stratosphere. He's test-flown 300 different planes. But when he lands, it's always . . . "Now for a Camel."

YOU CAN'T SEE HIM up there. You can scarcely hear the hum of his motors. Then his voice comes into the radio tower: "Headle—35,000 feet—diving now." And as he comes plummeting down in that shrieking power-dive, you just hope! Seconds later —yes, seconds—he's landing. And here he is (above) cool, calm, lighting up a Camel.

THE SMOKE'S THE THING!

The smoke of slower-burning Camels contains

than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested — less than any of them — according to independent scientific tests of the smoke itself

BY BURNING 25% SLOWER than the average of the 4 other largest-selling brands tested — slower than any of them — Camels also give you a smoking plus equal, on the average, to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina

"Less nicotine in the smoke means more mildness to me," says test pilot Marshall Headle (above), as he lights up his . . . and America's . . . favorite cigarette

THERE may be little traffic at 35,000 feet, but test-diving any new, untried plane is no Sunday joy-ride. No, not even for a veteran like Marshall Headle (above).

Naturally, cigarette mildness is important to Marshall Headle. And in the slower-burning cigarette of costlier tobaccos . . . Camels . . . he gets extra mildness — with less nicotine in the smoke.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, AUGUST 4, 1941.

This is a country in which it is necessary to sacrifice liberties in order to preserve them.

There is much generous talk about "dividing up the world's wealth after the war"—human nature being the only thing that seems to stand in the way.

Even in peacetime it was difficult to learn what was going on in Russia—where there is no Senator Wheeler to give advance information on military plans.

One Communist Ousted

AN EMPLOYE of the government of the United States has finally been discharged because of Communist affiliations and activities.

The discharge, strange as it may seem, was on direct order of Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, who has consistently opposed efforts to deport Harry Bridges, radical west coast labor leader.

Said Secretary Perkins, in explanation of the discharge: "A civil servant should not engage in activity of this character (assisting organizations whose basic doctrines strike at the very essence of the American system of government) while holding a position supported by public funds, especially a position in a bureau which has access to highly confidential and even secret military information."

Disclosures made by the Dies committee, in its investigation of un-American activities, have charged hundreds of federal employes with Communist affiliation. These ranged from clerks to bureau chiefs and included thirteen employes of the department of labor.

It may be noted that, in dismissing one employe, Secretary Perkins made a fine line of demarcation in the matter of access to "highly confidential information," but it may be wondered if rabid Communists infiltrated into any kind of government work might not be equally dangerous.

Whatever preference may have heretofore been shown by the New Deal regime for Communist affiliates, sympathizers and "fellow travelers" organizations, the time is ripe for clear understanding that Communism is as out of accord with American principles of government as is Naziism, and that neither should be sanctioned or condoned by responsible heads of this government.

Limit Gas-Selling Hours In East

BECAUSE voluntary compliance with a request for reduced gasoline didn't work, it has been deemed necessary to restrict the hours of selling gasoline in seventeen eastern and southeastern states.

Starting yesterday gasoline stations in the affected area will be open only from 7 a. m. until 7 p. m. at which time pumps are to be locked for the night.

Considering the "personal liberty" to which people have become accustomed, it may be doubted if this restriction will serve the intended purpose of reducing use of gasoline the 33 1-3 percent that Petroleum Coordinator Ickes says is necessary.

A full tank of gasoline, for instance, will carry through the ordinary requirements of night driving, and there is nothing to prevent motorists from nodding to the "Fill 'er up?" query at any time before 7 in the evening.

Thus far it appears to be the eastern seacoast states that are presenting the greatest problem in gasoline shortage, due to lack of tankers for transportation of petroleum from Gulf of Mexico ports, and it is predicted that a rationing system will be invoked unless night closing results in satisfactory cut of consumption.

Waste of Taxpayers' Money

AMONG wasteful expenditures of public money the primaries, to be held a week from tomorrow, to nominate party candidates for city offices, are entitled to a high place.

The whole routine of filing petitions, printing ballots, keeping precinct polling places open for the day, counting votes, etc., must be carried through because of a few contests on the Democratic ticket — there being no Republican contests.

No public interest is being shown in the primaries and it would appear to have been a simple matter to dispense with the several contests and decide on party candidates without the expensive formality of a primary election—but, in the midst of other greater extravagances, this may seem to be a minor matter.

Now It's Scrap Iron Scarcity

ONE of the materials this country has been selling to Japan for some years has been scrap iron. Even when certain types of scrap were embargoed, it remained possible for Japan to buy a ship that was ready for junking, sail it or tow it across the Pacific and turn it into scrap at home.

It was argued against this situation that it not only aided Japan in its war of aggression against China, but that it also depleted dangerously our own supplies of necessary scrap.

Today, a serious shortage of about 5,000,000 tons of scrap iron and steel is developing here and may soon cripple the nation's defense effort. Plans are being considered to clean up all iron scrap in automobile wrecking yards and to go after domestic scrap all over the country as has just been done with old aluminum. Such efforts no doubt will be fruitful and should be pushed to the fullest extent. It is unlikely that Japan will return any of the 11,000,000 tons of this commodity she got from us.

More 'Stomach Trouble'

A SURPRISING number of "peptic" or stomach ulcer cases are found among Canadian troops, both new recruits and those who have been in the army for some time, including the overseas troops. A similar tendency is said to exist among our American enlisted men, though it is less serious. And in private life we hear every little while of someone suffering from the disability. It is observed in industrial jobs and business life where physical check-ups are carried on. Mostly such ailments respond rather readily to medical care and diet, but they may be serious.

What is the cause? Often, physicians say, stomach ulcers come from eating the wrong food. Often, too, they come from worry or overwork, which interferes with proper digestion.

Detroit is now 240 years old—but, contrary to a popular idea—the last 40 appear to have been the hardest.

WHERE'S THE OIL CAN?

Seek Curb On Installment Buying

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — It is just a question of time, informed sources here believe, before installment-buying will be made an unpatriotic act. In fact some of the officials in favor of the move would go further and actually outlaw it. It would be a little tough on the finance companies, but there is not too much sympathy for them anyhow.

The object is two-fold. Primarily it is the desire to curtail spending on non-essentials, and conserve steel and other military necessities for national defense. This would apply particularly to automobiles, mechanical refrigerators, etc.

Secondly, it is a move toward the situation which is expected AFTER the war boom. One of the troubles caused in 1929, all economists realize, was that millions of people were caught suddenly with partial payment contracts which ran on and on.

The trouble about this is the more vivid now because there has been so much rehashing of the elements which led up to that depression. One of the things most talked about was the criticism by some economists, along about 1927, of installment-buying. They thought the country was going crazy, and that something ought to be done to put on the brakes.

AT THAT TIME an effort was made by those who were worried to get President Coolidge to coin some homely Yankee phrase about the dangers of installment-buying. But Coolidge refused. On the contrary he made some remarks to the effect that installment-buying was a pretty sound business.

No one thing Coolidge ever said—except possible "they hired the money, didn't they?" with reference to the war debts — brought down so much criticism on his head. But at the time most people probably agreed with Coolidge. Installment-buying was an obvious spur to business. It created markets which would have been impossible without it, especially in the case of expensive items.

None of the economists, who criticised installment-buying of these things, ever made the same attack on installment-buying of a house, which is the way the great majority of home owners acquire houses. Yet some might think a man is just as apt to live beyond his means by buying too expensive a house as by buying an automobile or refrigerator which he cannot afford.

BUT now the incentive of the government is far more in regard to the conservation of materials for national defense than economic effects later. Indeed it is more interested in forcing a considerable part of current earnings into government bonds and savings stamps than in the economic after effects.

Prohibition of installment-buying, it is contended, will go a long way toward heading off inflation. It will tend to induce people to put their money into government securities of various sorts rather than spend it. If enough people buy bonds instead of things they do not need, it will tend to hold down prices, which the government is desperately anxious to do.

In normal times prohibition of installment-buying would raise a furore. But with the government eager to curb the production of nearly everything sold by this method of furore, although it may be loud, will not be impressive. Many people will approve. These will include some fathers who do not want to buy a new car, although their children think they should.

Brain of Man Asserts Superiority

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

JUST why is man superior to the lower animals? The answer is apparently very pat. Because of his brain. There is no question that he has more and better brains than his ancestors.

The earliest man, the Java man, had a brain of 855 c.cm. The Piltdown man had a brain of 1300 c.cm. The average modern man has a brain of 1400 to 1500 c.cm.

But the mere question of weight and size is not sufficient to explain the differences to which I refer. Some anthropologists do not believe that brain weight is a necessary index to brain capacity. There are differences in the sizes of the different parts of the brain between man and the lower animals.

It will not do to say that man is superior to the brutes because his brain thinks. That is only a superficial reply. The brain needs material to think with just as much as a loom needs thread to weave cloth. What is the material? Professor Eliot Smith believes that it lies on the sensory side—that, particularly, binocular vision raises man above the beasts. A bird, a horse, probably a dog, sees with one eye directly in front of that eye—it cannot grasp distance, perspective, the stereoscopic view of binocular vision—its world is flat.

Dr. Tilney's Theory.

Dr. Frederick Tilney, the great comparative anatomist, believes, on the other hand, that man's brain is superior because he possesses neokinesis—a new potentiality to make movements.

"From first last," he says, "it has been the achievements of his hands which have carried man onward from the time when he began to work with the simplest of stone implements."

With the development of all the motor tracts and masses of gray nuclei which constitute the connections necessary for the fine co-ordinate movements of the hand, the impulses which come to consciousness from these sources make up an entirely different brain, an entirely different mind from that of any other animal.

Dog Talks With His Tail.

A dog, for instance, makes most of the movements expressive of emotions with his tail; he waves it happily in greeting and hangs it dejectedly in sickness and sorrow. All his emotional movements are tail movements. And of a consequence his entire world is completely different from that of a tailless animal. So that clever deft, quick instrument, the hand, which its owner is able to move so accurately as to pluck a mote from the point of a needle—this, according to Dr. Tilney, has lifted us above the lower animals.

Day's Book Linked to Nazi Agents, Is Devoted to Attack On Britain

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Representative Stephen A. Day, Republican congressman-at-large from Illinois, has just written a book which should be examined by every American citizen who wants to save the congress of the United States.

The book is called "We Must Save the Republic." Its cover is in red, white and blue, and the book is done up with all sorts of patriotic trimmings.

What Congressman Day does not say, however, is that his book "We Must Save the Republic" was published by agents with Nazi connections.

The book's back cover page contains this appeal: "Dear American, This book was inspired by the overwhelming response the author received from the American people for his brilliant, challenging radio address exposing 'Union Now' on June 15, 1941—which date is, incidentally, the day on which European nations are supposed to pay installments on the War Debts they owe the United States."

But what is omitted from the back cover is the fact that Congressman Day's speech attacking Britain on June 15 was mimeographed and sent out to newspapers from the office of the Columbia Press Service, which handles publicity for George Sylvester Viereck. Viereck, a nephew of the late kaiser, draws $1,000 monthly as the agent of Nazi Germany.

Registered As Agents.

THE COMPANY publishing his book is Flanders Hall of Scotch Plains, N. J., and anyone examining the records of the state department will find that on April 9, 1941, Flanders Hall registered as a foreign agent, listing as its officers Sigfrid Hauck, president; Mary Hauck, vice president, and Adolf Hauck, sec-treas.

Listed as the parties from whom the "above worked are George Sylvester Viereck, who in turn is registered with the state department as a Nazi agent, together with Dr. Giselher Wirsing of Munich, who is also the agent of Verlag Knorr and Hirth, a Munich publishing house.

Flanders Hall, before it published Congressman Day's tome, published "The 100 Families that Rule the Empire," a vitriolic attack on the British written by the above mentioned Giselher Wirsing.

Congressman Day's book also is devoted to attacking Great Britain. And although no mention is made of who published it, the book is touted as tearing "the masks from the sinister scheme to scrap your freedom and your heritage."

Note: When stump-speakers shout about the danger of dictatorship in the USA and how the powers of congress are being limited, they forget that dictatorship in Germany did not come until after the German people lost confidence in the reichstag. In this country the American people will retain confidence in congress only as long as its members refrain from running under false colors.

Emergency Farm Hand.

INDIANA'S ex-Governor Cliff Townsend, agricultural defense chief, had some first-hand experience regarding the shortage of farm labor recently.

En route to the Far West, Townsend stopped to visit his Indiana farm to see how things were coming along. But before he could ask any questions, his son said:

"Dad, we're up against a tough problem. I'm making hay today and need five hands. I've been everywhere and all I was able to get was four men. It looks like you're 'it' and will have to pitch in and help."

Townsend peeled off his coat, put on overalls and baled hay for the rest of the day.

Eighty Axis Ships.

THE WHITE HOUSE is being asked to decide vigorous backstage tug-of-war now raging between the state department and army-navy-maritime commission forces over the 80 Axis ships now tied up in Latin American harbors.

These ships have been gathering barnacles for two years. Meanwhile Britain is deperately hard up for vessels, the United States is restricting its oil transportation to the east coast, and neither this country nor the Latin Americans have enough bottoms to move copper, nitrates, coffee, cocoa, and a score of other important commodities needed here.

In fact, if there were enough ships to move our commerce, North and South America would be engaged in a very brisk and profitable business right now.

But certain South American countries, apparently worried that Hitler might win, are sitting tight. They don't know whether to buy the Axis ships, expropriate them, or let them continue to lie idle.

And the state department so far has stood with them. Despite the pleas of the maritime commission and the navy that these ships are desperately needed, the state department maintains that nothing should be done which would disrupt the Good Neighbor policy.

The maritime commission counters with the proposal that we trade lease-lend goods to Latin American countries in exchange for the ships, or that we buy them outright. Siding with the commission is General James H. Burns, able aide to Harry Hopkins in administering lease-lend goods.

Note: Venezuela and Cuba have indicated their willingness to let us have their Axis ships.

Mail Bag.

J. O. Mt. Horeb, Wis.—Phil LaFollette's blast at Secretary Ickes for "racing around the country making speeches" is ironic, because when LaFollette was governor of Wisconsin he was constantly on the go making speeches, some of them for pay. Also, he was glad to have Ickes make speeches for him and his brother, Senator Bob LaFollette. You are correct that last spring Phil appeared on a Brooklyn platform with the chief local Coughlin leader. . . . A. J. Lodi, Calif.—There isn't a chance in the world of this congress passing the Townsend old-age pension bill. Claims in the Townsend Weekly that the measure is on the verge of enactment are unfounded. It is unlikely that it will even come to a vote.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Capital conversation:

The night bombing of Moscow is one more link in the chain of proof that cities which straddle rivers are highly vulnerable to blitzkriegs from the air. The Moscow river winds through the Soviet capital and, like a twisted arrow, points the way for enemy bombers.

Check over the cities that have had the worst night bombings in this war and you will find that nearly all of them are split by rivers or curve around harbors.

The point isn't that industrial centers or invasion bases are always located on water. The point is tha you can black out manmade lights, but you can't black out the lights that shine from the skies. Just as the stars in the heavens led navigators of other generations to their destinations, so now stars reflected in water lead carloads of death from above to the points they wish to strike.

Sense of Rumor.

BEFORE announcement of the freezing of Japanese assets was 15 hours old, I had two readers ask why the government again chose to close the barn door after loudly braying to the horse that such action was coming.

In this instance, at least, the government was not at fault. The first report, rumor, hint, or whatever you choose to call it, that the government might take that kind of retaliatory action against Japan's occupation of Indo-China came from England, not Washington.

The consensus here is that London didn't really know about it at all, but was just hopefully guessing that Washington might do what Tokyo already feared—freeze Japanese investments in this country.

In spite of the fact that Japan wasn't asleep, as evidenced by its earlier order, holding all American-bound ships in port, the premature rumor did cause some action. On the morning before the freezing order was issued, I bumped into a Japanese acquaintance coming out of the bank.

"Well," I said, "I guess you have been cleaning out your account?"

He laughed and said, "Oh yes; I know what you mean. But I have just been drawing a little expense money." Then he pulled his fist out of his pocket and there was a roll of bills that would have choked Jonah's whale.

"What you need," I said, "is a convoy."

"Oh yes," he said, laughing again. "Today, in the United States, many Japanese need convoy."

Dogs In Army.

THE Remount Service, which ordinarily supplies the army with horses and mules, has a new order now—for huskies. Comes the report from New Hampshire that the service there is getting Eskimo dogs ready for the early snows, probably in Greenland and Iceland.

The army has used huskies before — on Alaskan patrols — but never to the extent they will be necessary in Iceland and Greenland.

Two phases of the husky training are innovations. There being no snow in New Hampshire now, the trainers devised a "sled" on wheels, with constant-pressure brakes that simulate the pull of a sled through snow. The reason for the other innovation is a little more obscure. They are training the lead dogs to obey the commands "gee" and "haw." Perhaps they are planning to recruit the dog sled handlers from the ranks of the mule-skinners.

A Farmer's Diary

Mother's Closet

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE little old woman who lived alone far up in the valley, was very ill. I had known her long, and often when I went by that way I stopped to visit. The little drab, unpainted house was always neat and clean. There were boxes of geraniums and petunias and climbing vines of beans and ivy about the outer porch. When we sat inside it seemed like a wall of green, flecked with moving shadows and playful sunlight. The blooming plants and the odors of old wood and rapidly growing vines mingled in a strange, distinctive fragrance.

A spring was nearby, in a corner of the fresh, green lawn where she kept milk with golden cream on top in half-gallon crocks and berries freshly gathered from the hill. A little frame of moist boards fitted poorly over four sloping walls of stone and the rusty hinges creaked whenever it was opened. It pulled up and down balanced by a heavy clock weight with a rope and pulley attached to a chestnut post above.

This morning on which she was ill, I passed by again. The cow grazed by the brook along the drive, and the familiar bell sounded rhythmically as she cropped the grass. Three new expensive cars were parked along the picket fence outside the lawn, and I heard men's voices speaking low and deliberately within the house.

I climbed the creaky steps that led to the porch and rapped at the screen door. A tall, well-dressed man of middle age invited me to enter. He introduced me to his brothers who stood near the foot of the old high posted bed where their mother lay. Her small form made only a ripple beneath the spotless counterpane.

"She had a restless night," one said, "but now she is asleep."

As I watched her there, unconscious of those about, I could not but wonder that so frail a woman could be the mother of three tall strong men like these.

As we went out upon the porch again, the oldest son thoughtlessly opened a narrow closet door. A little old handmade wagon, with solid wheels, such as a three-year-old might ride, tumbled out. Farther in were little battered shoes, ice skates, an old harmonica. Molds for making Christmas cookies were on a shelf, building blocks, a rubber ball up beneath the eaves and a bat standing in one corner. The old school lunch basket hung from one hand hewn rafter.

In another corner old readers and picture books were ranged, and tied together in a precious pack were four old song books.

The three strong men looked at their old toys in silence, exchanged long glances, then reverently closed the door.

All of us were suddenly wordless.

CHAPTER XXV

Doris did not have the strength to run for long. Her footsteps lagged. It seemed hours that she plodded on wearily through the woods. Her only guide was the track left in the light snow by Malone's car. It seemed incredible to her that there should be no sign of civilization. In vain she looked ahead for a house, a highway, some outpost of humanity; there was none.

Pausing to rest, Doris sat on a large stump and surveyed the situation with despairing eyes.

"I could go back to the cabin," she thought, noticing that the twilight was fast deepening into night. But she shuddered at the thought of spending another night there. Surely there would be a farmhouse, an automobile or someone to help her if she went on.

She forced herself to her feet. The snow was falling in great flakes now, flakes which fastened themselves to her coat like crystal stars. The branches of the pine trees were coated with them as they fell in a never-ending sheet from the gray sky.

But Doris saw none of the beauty around her. Her feet in their thin slippers were numb from the cold. She had lost her gloves, and she thrust her stiff fingers in the arms of her coat. She clenched her teeth to keep them from chattering.

Night fell black and starless over the pine trees. The tire tracks were no longer visible. The heavy snow had completely concealed the trail she had been following, but Doris refused to admit that she was lost. She tried to keep going in the same direction; then the darkness completely confused her.

"I'm afraid to stop," she thought, though her tired body pleaded for rest.

Her slippers were soaked through now with the snow and she felt leaden weights in her chest. It was difficult to breath

As the minutes dragged into long hours she became conscious of a new sensation. Instead of being cold, she became warm. She threw off the scarf and loosened the buttons of her coat. The night seemed filled with a strange unnatural brightness. She felt lightheaded and giddy as her feet moved on mechanically.

A noise penetrated the night. Doris paused to listen. It sounded again. It was a car! The headlights swinging into view in the distance told her that it was true

"I must have reached the highway!" she said aloud, and forced her trembling legs to run towards the light.

But when she reached the road the car was gone. In despair, Doris suddenly knew she could not go another step. Her body refused to listen to the warnings that rang in her brain.

"I can't go on!" she sobbed and sank down into the soft snow, feeling its smooth coldness against her burning cheeks.

Ten minutes later another car rounded the bend in the road.

Jamming on the brakes, the driver said nervously to the woman beside him, "Look, that's a girl!"

Jumping from the car, they bent over the limp form. The white skin was drawn tightly over Doris's cheekbones. Her breath came raspingly.

"What's the matter with her?" the woman asked anxiously.

"I don't know. But she's in bad shape."

"You don't think she's been hit by a car?"

"No. She doesn't seem to be hurt."

"We'd better get her to a hospital."

"Put her into the back seat," the woman directed, "and I'll take care of her."

Doris moaned softly as the car sped toward the lights of Detroit. After a while she opened glassy eyes which stared at the woman without seeing her.

"Hurry!" the woman commanded. "Can't you go faster?"

"We're almost there." The car gathered speed.

Doris heard their voices as if in a vague dream. She heard the humming of the motor, the traffic noises. A little later she was conscious of sharp lights, white walls . . . white-coated figures bending over her . . . a delicious sense of warmth and happiness . . . then oblivion.

It was three days later when Doris opened her eyes and said in a dazed whisper, "Where am I?"

"Lie down, dear," a nurse directed. "You're in a hospital and you're going to be all right."

Doris obeyed. She looked around the small room, beyond the nurse to the windows through which a bright sun streamed.

"What day is it?" The nurse told her, adding, "You mustn't talk now. You've been very ill and you need rest."

The days that followed were pleasantly languorous. Doris ate and slept and lay contentedly upon her pillows

"You're doing fine," the doctor told her one day as he made his morning visit. "We're going to have you up and around one of these days."

Doris smiled faintly. She did not care at that moment whether or not she ever got up. Her mind was sometimes vaguely curious about George Malone or about Jimmy. But the strain of thinking about anything was too much.

It was several weeks after she had been picked up out of the snow that Doris awoke one morning to a feeling of reality.

Her nurse, Miss Hargrave, found her sitting up in bed smiling.

"I feel wonderful," Doris said. "And now I want to know all about everything. "Who brought me here? What happened to my father?"

"A man and his wife found you unconscious on the highway. They brought you here."

"And George Malone?" Doris insisted.

"He's in custody," Miss Hargrave said matter-of-factly as she adjusted the pillows.

"Do you mean the police caught him?" Doris cried excitedly.

"Now you mustn't get excited," her nurse warned, "or I won't tell you any more about it."

"But I have to know!" Doris insisted. "Please tell me what happened."

"Well, all I know, of course, is what it said in the papers. The police captured him about sixty miles from Detroit with another man."

"That was Joe," Doris prompted. "Go on."

"That's about all," Miss Hargrave said. "There was a good deal about it at the time but there hasn't been any publicity lately."

"Didn't the papers say anything about Jimmy Allen?" Doris asked wistfully.

"He paid the ransom, of course, and was working with the police. He identified Malone. I believe he was with the detectives who captured him."

"You haven't heard anything else about Jimmy Allen?" Doris said, hoping desperately that he had tried to get in touch with her.

"No," Miss Hargrave said cheerfully and apparently had no idea of the effect of these words upon her patient.

So Jimmy had paid the money only to trap Malone. If his motive had been love, he would surely have come to see her, or sent her some word. His silence proved conclusively that Jimmy did not care.

"Your friend Bonnie has been here every day, but the doctor didn't want you to have any visitors. The reporters have been trying to see you too."

"But I must see Bonnie, Doris cried. "And I feel so much better now."

"We'll ask the doctor about it," Miss Hargrave agreed pleasantly.

The doctor agreed to Bonnie's visit and Doris watched the clock until the appointed time.

Bonnie looked anxious. "Don and I have been so worried," she confessed as she kissed Doris.

"I feel like a new woman," Doris said. "But I wish you'd tell me what happened. I can't get much out of my nurse."

Bonnie sat down beside the bed. "I'm afraid this is all my fault Doris. If I hadn't argued you out of going to the police in the first place, this would never have happened. I tried to phone you that night at Mrs. Ames's and when she said you hadn't come home for dinner I knew something had happened. So Don and I went straight to the police and told them about Malone."

"Did you say that he was my father?"

"No," Bonnie admitted. "I didn't see what difference it would make, so I just told them that he had threatened you. Of course they didn't have much to go on. I didn't even know what he looked like.

Doris was so sad that Bonnie reached over and patted her hand.

"Don't think about it now, honey. "It's all over. Look, I brought you a present."

Doris opened the ribbon-bound box and drew out a silky pink maribou bed jacket. "Oh, Bonnie! It's adorable! You shouldn't have done this."

Bonnie's round eyes were pleased as she urged, "Try it on."

Doris drew it over her frail shoulders and laughed luxuriously. "I feel elegant!"

Bonnie nodded and looked at her admiringly. Doris's blond beauty had become almost ethereal. "She looks like an angel," Bonnie thought, seeing the soft golden hair, the deep blue eyes with their faint shadows of illness, and the delicate transparent features. The pink furry jacket added a touch of color to her pale cheeks.

Miss Hargrave opened the door. "I don't have to go yet, do I?" Bonnie protested amiably.

The nurse smiled. "Of course not. But there's another visitor to see you Miss Newton. Mr. James Allen!"

FARMER YIELDS TO WILD GEESE

But Flock Does Considerable Damage To His 1941 Wheat Crop.

PERRY, Kas. —(UP)— Elmer R. Goepfert, a farmer, enjoys nothing more than to get out his shotgun and go hunting, particularly for ducks or geese.

The Perry American Legion Trapshooting club has its buildings on the 105-acre wheat farm which Goepfert operates. Goepfert is one of its most active members, although he is a stickler of obeying the game laws and he never allows any shooting on his place out of season.

Goepfert is primarily a wheat farmer, depending for his living on the money the wheat brings every year.

Recently Goepfert was awakened by the "honking" of geese. An investigation disclosed that thousands of the birds had alighted on a 50-acre lake in the middle of Goepfert's wheat field.

Many of the geese nibbled at the sprouts just above the ground. The question immediately arose in Goepfert's mind whether he should satisfy his longing to shoot the birds and protect his wheat, or whether he should observe the letter of the law. The geese and duck season ended in December.

Finally Goepfert went back into his house and called a state game protector in Topeka, Carl Tiechgraeber. Tiechgraeber arrived a short time later and estimated the size of the flock at 20,000 geese.

The flock stayed at Goepfert's farm for several days, feeding on the wheat. When the first flock had gone, a new one arrived. The second one departed without Goepfert ever firing a shot.

He hopes the geese, along next November, when they're going south, recall what excellent treatment they found at the Goepfert farm. The hunting season will be on then.

The Petulant Mrs. Pentwhistle

Ordinarily a sweet-tempered little lady, Mrs. Pentwhistle can get pretty petulant at times . . . times like this, for instance, when she begins to feel that she has a rival for her husband's attention.

We can't say we blame her much. Table-talk with a photograph can't be very stimulating.

But cheer up, Mrs. Pentwhistle, Mr. P's passion for the paper is perfectly normal . . . just as normal as yours and that of millions of other Pentwhistles throughout the country. It comes over men and women, young and old, every day in the week . . . simply because the news is indispensable in people's lives.

Day in and day out the newspaper grips the attention of the largest audience in the world.

(While you're waiting your turn at that paper, Mrs. Pentwhistle, you might ponder the fact that every weekday the 37,000,000 families in the United States and Canada buy, and read, 43,300,000 newspapers . . . and every Sunday they buy, and read, 33,000,000 newspapers.)

That's what makes the newspaper such a vital and profitable medium for advertisers. And today, when the news is more important to more people than ever before, the newspaper is naturally a more vital, more profitable advertising medium than ever before.

MARGARET ELAINE FOX TO MARRY MR. PFAHLER

Announcement Tea Given Sunday Afternoon At Colonial Guest House to Tell of Nuptials on Aug. 24.

AT A TEA Sunday afternoon at the Colonial Guest House announcement was made of the wedding date which has been selected by Miss Margaret Elaine Fox, 336 West Fifth street, and her fiance, John Lloyd Pfahler. The two have chosen Sunday, Aug. 24, as their wedding day, the ceremony to take place in the First Methodist church at 2:30 o'clock.

Thirty guests were invited to the informal party from 2 to 4 p. m. yesterday.

Miss Fox is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fox, 336 West Fifth street, and Mr. Pfahler's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Pfahler, 49 Greenwood avenue. Rev. E. G. Corwin will officiate for the open church ceremony. Miss Fox has chosen her sister, Virginia, for her maid of honor and James Pfahler, brother of the bridegroom, will serve as best man.

Hostesses for the party Sunday were the bride-to-be's mother and sister. The guests learned of the coming nuptials when refreshments were served. White napkins were folded to resemble envelopes which concealed notes giving the names of the couple and the wedding date. Appointments for the long table were in pastel shades. Mrs. Fox and Mrs. Pfahler presided. The remainder of the afternoon was spent socially.

Out-of-town guests present were Miss Janis Crall of Shelby, a cousin of the honoree, Mrs. Robert Hall and Mrs John Williams of Lexington.

The first in a series of pre-nuptial honors for Miss Fox will be held Friday evening at the home of Mrs. James Rizer, Ruth avenue, with her daughters, Margaret and Jane assisting.

Former Residents Honored With Party On Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Slone of Delaware, former residents of Mansfield, were honored Sunday with a surprise party at their home in celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary. Friends and former neighbors of Mansfield motored to Delaware last evening for a dinner party and social evening. The guests presented Mrs. Slone with a corsage and Mr. Slone with a boutonniere. They were also given a gift of silver.

Those present from here included Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kunert, Mr. and Mrs. George Stuhldreher, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Varney and daughter, Virginia and son, Jack, Mr. and Mrs. Shannon Lowe, Mr and Mrs Delmer Hurlow, all of Mansfield, Mr and Mrs. Francis Hanrahan and Miss Juanita Slone of Shelby. Mrs. Hanrahan and Miss Slone are daughters of the honored couple. Mr. and Mrs. Frank O'Neal of Bellville, also former Mansfield neighbors of the Slones, were in attendance.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Miss Dorothy McGaw, Maple lane, was hostess for a party in honor of Miss Barbara Prion on her fourth birthday anniversary Sunday. The affair was given at the home of the honoree's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Prion, Maple lane. Games and contests were the diversions and at a late hour refreshments were served. The little girl received lovely gifts from the seven youngsters in attendance.

Accessories Important For Ensembles

By ORRY-KELLY

(Famous Hollywood Stylist Writing For International News Service)

HOLLYWOOD—When we asked Howard Shoup "Why the odd and unusual buttons" on a coat he was doing for Ida Lupino to wear in "The Gentle People," he facetiously retorted tht he was "merely in the notion for notions." So we got to thinking that the notion sections of the country's department stores were slowly but surely advancing into the first ranks of fashion. This brought about our own research for alert touches that are making women's wear only as smart as the smartest detail.

Ever consider what a little piece of braid can do? It's this kind of trim that makes Olivia de Havilland's newest outfit so eye catching. Over a simple print she wears a redingote in brown with flared skirt, (the flared skirt is still in despite early predictions to the contrary) and the bodice touched with white braid that rambles in a puzzling design from shoulder to waistline. Then to keep the costume in the correct period Olivia wears a square crowned derby in dull white straw.

We're convinced that buttons speak for themselves this spring, that women are conscious of their newly acquired accent on the charm of a simple wardrobe. Select them with the same care you give to your choice of accessories because handsome, sometimes gaudy buttons can truly accessorize the smart but plain costume. In this coat mentioned for Miss Lupino, Howard emphasized a curved front closing with small buttons of the self material, which is a heavy dark green linen styled for dress wear. Each button has a small ruffled edge like pee wee sunflowers.

Consider the slide fastener. Have one in contrast on a monotone, like enamel blue on rose pink, red on white, green on black or beige. Vera West is designing a smart sweater for Deanna Durbin that uses a slide fastener not only to facilitate the getting into and out of, but also as detail. The sweater is a very long form fitting heavy white knit jerkin, with tight sleeves. Two lengthy purple slides are set in under each arm. Miss West thinks she has a hint to accelerate the present craze for knitting in the matching cap also with purple slide fastener.

Then merely as a beach fad, but something the younger girl will like is the trick of wearing an upper hair do secured with red, white and blue hairpins. Linda Darnell wears them with a white cotton romper suit with red, white and blue midsection.

Geraldine Fitzgerald suggests the new sacheted dress shields for the summer wardrobe. It's a dainty, feminine trick, new, in fact the latest, for surrounding yourself with that subtle perfumed aura that every girl tries to achieve.

Cotton Evening Frock

Please 'Dress' for Evenings

By AMY PORTER
AP FASHION EDITOR

When you have a choice between dressing and not dressing of a summer evening, we hope you're woman enough to choose to dress.

Long, floaty dresses belong to summertime, and this summer they're particularly tempting. There's a dress for every degree of formality, for every mood. There are sweet ones at $5, and magnificent dazzlers at as much as you want to pay.

Country-ish and hostess frocks are styled so you can't possibly feel too dressed up in them, even if the men wear business suits—ginghams made almost like sports frocks, except that their long skirts lend enchantment; dotted swisses and lawns with modest sleeves and immodest necklines, frocks of the type we used to call dirndl, and now call "foreign-look dresses."

Charm Comes Ahead of Style.

Such dresses you buy for their gentle summery charm, without much concern about style.

But high style is abundantly available in more formal evening wear. The tapering look is making headway in long-sleeved dinner dresses. Huge sleeves, pleated or puffed, and a bloused top make the narrow skirt look narrower. Slits to the knee are needed for walking room. This is the slim silhouette you heard talk of, but seldom saw, last winter. It is growing in importance and by next fall probably will be accepted by everyone.

Blazing colors in rich fabrics will be seen here and there on summer evenings. A satin dress, for example with horizontal stripes in turquoise blue and tulip red, and worn with long pale blue gloves. Equally striking are black and white gowns—white mousseline banded in black lace, worn with black lace mitts extending above the elbow.

Another Advance Notice.

Tiered dresses, again prophetic of fall style, are increasingly popular. They may have three or four tiers, or only a peplum. You'll see them in striped rayon jersey, in white lace, black lace, tiny floral prints.

A once-in-a-while style that may appeal to you — it certainly appeals to men—is ballet slippers with evening frocks. Have them dyed to match your pastels or to contrast sharply with white. You'll feel light and graceful, you'll look all-out feminine.

Below-the-elbow sleeves and a low neckline style formula for summer evenings. Here fine Swiss cloque organdy in a culticolor floral print is softly draped at the bodice, cut to sweeping skirt lines, with fullness concentrated at the back. Designed by Herbert Sondheim.

Here's What's New For Fall

NEW YORK—Now, while the ocean breezes meet the heat waves, here's what the American fashion market is busy concocting for your fall wardrobe:

Fringe, in the South American manner. Stunning evening gowns made of flounces of long fluid fringe, designed by Belle Sutton.

Accent on hips. Soft drapery, folds and tucks, or shirring at a low hipline. Interesting hip pockets, hip bows and embroidered motifs.

The new spiral skirts in street frocks of Calanese rayon crepes, designed by Bender.

Metallis chain fastenings on fall dresses matched with belts and buttons.

Ornamental buttons on everything. Large buttons, jeweled buttons, carved buttons, and artistic motifs of gold or silver finish, accenting each pocket, or used as fastenings.

The longer torso. Important in children's clothes as well as grownups. The waistline will be neatly fitted, but the skirt actually starts at a low hipline.

Pleats and fullness. As popular as ever. Skirts have a straight look, to be sure, but many pleats are shown either all-around the skirt or in sections. Fullness is often achieved with shirring each side of the front only.

Big Sister Makes the Sacrifices

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

"I find your letters very interesting and helpful. I am not a mother nor a teacher. I want to be understanding and helpful to all the persons who cross my path. I was especially interested in a letter published in your column that was written by the oldest girl in a large family. I happen to be the oldest girl in a large family and I have had to sacrifice a great deal. It doesn't seem as if our parents are selfish. It is just a matter of there being so much to do that the big sister just naturally has to be pressed into service.

Realized Too Late.

"It isn't until we get past our youth that we stop and think of what might have been. I don't regret any of the sacrifices but I wonder sometimes about the lonely years ahead of me. My parents were good hard-working Christian people, and very strict. I wonder sometmies if my life would have been different if I had had the opportuntiy to meet more people socially. When my sister and I went to a party we were always ordered to be home at a certain time, usually before the party had really begun. We were so embarrassed at having to tell our hostess that we had to leave early that we just stopped going to parties.

"I wish you would write some thing on that subject. I know some other girls who had the same experience and they feel that they might have had a great deal more happiness in life if their parents had not been so strict about early hours."

The Reply.

Now, as you well know, I believe parents should hold up standards to their children; I fear, indeed, that many of us have let down far too much. I also believe we should be reasonable. I believe this young woman has a point regarding parties. I wish parents would not demand that their children come home before the party ends. If they must, they are made miserable, and become outcasts. On the other hand, I wish parties were not so prolonged as many are today. Working tactfully together, we might do something about it. Nevertheless, it is not so much a character issue as a health one. If next day is not a school day, why worry so much about the hour so long as the children are together, lots of them, and we know where they are?

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. What do you consider the leading causes of disobedience in the child?

A. Lack of self-control in parents and lack of agreement between them; too much bossing, repetition of command; inconsistency of parents, and their lack of praise when the child has done well.

Q. Is there any sense in commanding a child when you are pretty sure he won't obey?

A. No; unless you are sure you have available the means of rendering him more ready to obey next time.

High Style Fashions, Fancy Work

Lift your wardrobe right out of those twixt-season doldrums—with Pattern 9736! A frock that's as practical as it is smart, you'll wear it now as a street dress, and under your coat later on. That all-down-the-front panel gives you the tall, willowy lines you love, and curving front hip-yokes give a very long-waisted look. There's a panel at the back skirt, too. Notice how nicely the bodice softness is gathered-in below the well-shaped shoulder yokes and above the waistline. For a "dressed-up" note, you might have the yokes and the trim sleeve tabs in a pretty lace-edged contrast.

Pattern 9736 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 16 requires 2⅛ yards 39-inch fabric.

Send 15 cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Send your order to The Mansfield News-Journal, Pattern department, 232 West 18th street, New York, N. Y.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I have seen many bullies and braggarts receive their "comeuppance," but never has it been my lot—my privilege in this particular instance—to witness so thorough a deflation as Stephen Redfield's, when Noel's voice sounded outside my door.

If there had been a split second of time, I am afraid I would have been malicious enough to murmur: "How fortunate for you! Now you will have the opportunity to administer that spanking." But I do not think he would have heard the gibe. With his eyes wildly searching the room for a possible exit, he was edging toward my bedroom door, the while his hands were frantically signalling me for silence.

But I did not need his signal. The thing that I "wanted the leastest of," as Lillian's old colored housekeeper used to say, was the entrance of Noel while Stephen Redfield was in my apartment.

Deeply etched upon my memory was Noel's recent threat to "kill the swine," also Olga's warning against the "heritage of terrible rages," which Philip Veritzen's son possessed.

With the task of putting Noel off momentarily looming before me, I too hurried silently to my bedroom, and from the vantage of its door called out. "Wait a second, please, Noel. I'll be with you immediately."

"Is Mary there?" he demanded hoarsely, and even as I answered, "No, not yet. She's coming over later," my statement was given the direct lie by the tempestuous entrance of Noel's young wife from the adjoining suite.

Mary's flashing eyes and flushed face told me what had happened. Through that door, which I purposely had left ajar, she had heard that smug, contemptuous fling at her husband, and her temper, never noted for its evenness, had flamed into fury.

She patently was ready to tell Stephen Redfield "what was wrong with him from the hour of his birth on." I remembered this line of her own vivid phraseology.

But I was not ready to have Noel hear Mary's voice speaking to Redfield, even in hot-tempered denunciation, and even as she came through the door I put my fingers to my lips in an imperative signal for silence. Then, crossing to her, I whispered tensely:—

Redfield Sent Away.

"Not a word aloud! Noel is outside the door, asking where you are. Get Redfield into the other suite, and have your father-in-law take him to some other room in the hotel immediately. Then come back here in about ten minutes, coming around the corridor to the door of my living room. And do not betray by word or manner that you have seen Redfield.

"I get you," she whispered back, and beckoned imperiously to Redfield.

"I know you're just pining for a bout with Noel, Stevie," she whispered mockingly, but there was fury in her eyes. "However, you'll have to postpone it until later in the morning. Auntie Madge is kicking us out. But I'll see that you have it, never fear!"

I waited only until the masked door closed behind them, and then rushed back to the outer door of my suit and threw it open upon a militant Noel, who was fairly trembling with excitement and anger.

"I am so sorry I had to keep you waiting, Noel," I said, "but your knock came just as I was changing my gown."

He cast a mechanical, uncomprehending I knew, really unseeing glance at my house coat, then, shaking his head as if he were trying to clear it of fog, he demanded hoarsely:

"Where are Mary and that swine, Redfield? You've got to tell me."

14-Year-Old Girl Falls In Love

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Do I believe in love?

With all my heart, and more than ever. In these troubled days, above all times, the world needs love, and plenty of it.

And yet there are cases where I would lower the flame of love, if I could, so that it might burn more brightly later on.

These reflections are the result of a letter that came to me the other day from a 14-year-old girl named Doris.

Now, Doris has been so precocious as to fall in love with a boy two years older than herself. It's real love, she says; love that will last for a lifetime. It's the most important thing that could possibly happen to her. It transfigures her whole life. She is ecstatically, unspeakably happy, and Jim, her boy friend, is in the same condition.

But Doris didn't write merely to tell me this. She has a complaint to make against her parents, who refuse to take her love affair seriously. She's too young, they tell her, and too inexperienced. Too young, they say, even to call herself engaged, for a girl shouldn't bind herself by an agreement to marry that couldn't possibly be fulfilled for half a dozen years. In fact, she's nothing but a child, her mother says, and she mustn't talk or think about love for years to come.

The parents are right, of course. All the sensible arguments are against poor little Doris' love-affair. But how is she to be weaned from love, this girl who has a heart so made for loving? And, after all, isn't it more or less the fault of her parents' generation that she ever thought of herself as a marriageable miss?

In the past few years, very young girls have been encouraged to grow up at a fast pace. Little sisters who formerly wore pigtails, flat heels, went to bed at nine o'clock and had no social existence whatever have been allowed to imitate the ways of the eighteen-year-olds. They have their own parties, their own beaux, their own evening clothes—and, of course, their own problems.

In fashionable circles, the girl of this age is known as a "subdeb" and receives a good deal of adult attention. A popular magazine has a department devoted to her. A book of widely-read short stories, of which she is a heroine, has just been published. Clothes are especially designed for her. The parties that she goes to can hardly be distinguished from her older sister's parties. This funny, charming, uniformed little person is suddenly leading what is almost a grown-up life.

With many girls, this scheme may work very well. They can act like puppies and kittens in the day-time and like imitation grown-ups at night, yet suffer no harm.

But supposing, like Doris, they come to have grown-up emotions? It's really very natural, after all. The friendly boy school-mate, who sometimes went so far as to treat her to a few sundaes at the drug-store, seems like a different being when they're both wearing party clothes and dancing together late at night. He may seem much nicer. He may even seem romantic. He may, in his charming, boyish way, make love. And any shy, untaught creature, may, as Doris has done, surrender her heart.

It would only be by a miracle that such a love could last. Yet it should be treated tenderly and with respect. Parents faced with such a situation need to have a great deal of tact and understanding. I have written Doris what I considered good advice. But she needs a deeply loving mother to stand by her, too.

Although the great bulwark of Mohammedanism can be found among the 40,000,000 Arabic-speaking peoples living from Morocco to Iran, the faith has an estimated 250,000,000 followers.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHERE YOU WANT THEM

More and more, fine players thinking of making an original bid are placing greater value on their chief honor strength in side suits, rather than in the long suit which they use to open the bidding. At that stage, they don't know that the hand is going to be played in the suit they name, or even that the opening bidder will wind up as declarer. A goodly share of the time, even the opponents will obtain the contract, and the opening bidder's cards must be used on the defensive.

1. ♠ J 10 8 6 5	2. ♠ A K 8 6 5
♥ A K 6	♥ J 10 6
♦ K Q 10	♦ K Q 10
♣ 5 2	♣ 5 2

Just compare those two hands. Each contains exactly the same amount of honor strength. In one of them, however, the spade suit is strong, topped by the two main honors. In the other case, it is weak, and those honors are on the side, in the short heart suit.

There are four main factors to consider in making a bid, since the fact that you bid indicates that your hand ought to be of some use to your side, no matter who gets the contract. Let's rate the two hands under each of these headings.

1. Defensive Strength — Hand No. 1 is immeasurably better, since there is virtually no risk of the heart honors being trumped. They should be worth two tricks. The top honors in the spade suit of No. 2 are in great danger of being ruffed, at least one of them, if the opponents play the hand at another suit; there is a good chance they may then be worth only one trick, perhaps none.

2. If Played at Spades — You have your proper number of cards for a safe bid in either hand; your partner requires the same number of cards to consider the suit safe if he raises. Remember, a safe trump suit is one in which you figure to have one or more cards left after the opponents' trumps are gone. Also, you have your same total number of playing tricks in either hand, plus a greater chance to gain the lead early with some trump tricks, of course, with that hand, but they don't count any more than heart tricks by the opponents.

3. If Your Partner Takes Out—Aren't you better prepared for any take-out by your partner, with No. 1? And suppose his response is clubs? With No. 1, you have a very safe No Trump call, with all suits then stopped, whereas with No. 2 you would fear the hearts and the opponents might run them at the start.

4. If Your Partner Leads—Except against a slam contract, which is unlikely by the opponents against either of these hands, a spade lead is okeh to you with either, especially at No Trumps when you have those heart honors on the side.

Liver With Bacon Suits All Seasons

By BETSY NEWMAN

Liver and bacon is one of those dishes that may be served at any time of the year. Fry tomatoes and arrange them around the meat dish, and you have an attractive and satisfying main dish for an August meal.

Today's Menu.

Liver and Bacon
Pan Fried Tomatoes
Boiled Potatoes
Lettuce with Vinegar Dressing
Lemon Rice Pudding
Coffee or Tea

Liver and Bacon.

1 lb liver, sliced
Sliced bacon
Flour
Salt and pepper

If you use beef liver, parboil first, then dredge with flour and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Allow 3 slices of bacon for each person to be served, fry slowly until crisp, then remove to hot platter. Drop prepared liver into hot fat and brown well on both sides. If calves' liver is to be used, it may be washed, dipped in flour, seasoned and fried without being first parboiled or scalded. Have liver sliced thin and divided into serving pieces before cooking.

Lemon Rice Pudding.

½ cup rice	Grated rind
3 eggs	1 qt. milk
½ cup sugar	1 lemon
½ teaspoon salt

Boil rice in milk in double boiler until rice is very soft. Separate whites and yolks of eggs, beat yolks, add sugar, grated lemon rind and salt to them, then add part of hot rice and milk mixture to them, mix well, then add rest of milk mixture, blend well and return to double boiler. Cook for 10 minutes, then turn into baking dish. Beat whites of eggs stiff, add 3 tablespoons confectioner's sugar and 1 tablespoon lemon juice, spread on pudding and put in slow oven to brown.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, Augu. 5.

A day of rather peculiar or intriguing forces is read from the prevailing lunar and mutual influences. This may vanquish obscure or dubious plans or objectives, culminating in rich performance and rewards. Under this vibration dreams and utopian ambitions have been known to "come true" and with thrilling climax. A simplification of plans, reducing them to practical possibilities of realization, should be worked for with vim and decision but not impetuously or rashly. With such restraints and clarification of obscurities there should be much success, with promotion, favors and aid of those in large organizations.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which some cherished dreams or lofty ambitions may be brought into gratifying realization. Perhaps subtle, obscure or vague longings may attain concrete form. This may be through promotion, preferment, favors or from the blossoming of a superior creative talent. Large bodies, fraternities, political or cultural groups may contribute to this, but they should be approached with tact the strategy, rather than direct reckless or tumultuous conduct. This might be disastrous to high hopes. Also be circumspect in all emotional situations in both business and private relations.

A child born on this day should be energetic and forceful, possibly tumultous and hasty, yet will have talents of a high order, excelling in creative forms in art, music, poetry, or in business subtlety.

CITY'S STORES RESTRICT SALES OF SILK HOSE

The rush apparently was limited to silk stockings, although two or three merchants said they had noticed a gain in sales of other silk wearing apparel.

Store proprietors admitted there was little chance that other shipments of silk hose will be available until the ban is lifted, but they anticipated little trouble in getting other silk and rayon garments.

Pointing out that the silk ban will create an industrial problem of national importance, the National Association of Hosiery manufacturers said today that 21,291,486 dozen pairs of women's hose were shipped during the first half of 1941, an increase of 14.6 per cent over last year.

Second half shipments would be even greater under normal circumstances, the association said, since holiday buying usually steps up the demand.

Although the nylon manufacturers are making efforts to increase their output rapidly, it was explained that only 3,453,011 dozen pairs of nylon hose were produced during the first six months of this year. Production in June, however, was stepped up to a record 701,000 dozen pairs, 21 per cent of all deliveries for month.

The silk shortage was already being felt today in the rayon industry. The government set aside 10 per cent of each rayon producer's output this month and next for the benefit of hosiery manufacturers which was expected to aggravate an already serious rayon yarn problem.

A press dispatch from San Francisco today said the Japanese liner, Asama Maru, carrying a $3,000,000 silk cargo and 140 passenger to the United States, was unreported after leaving Honolulu and it was believed the ship may have turned back to Yokohama because of the cancellation of all Japanese departures for the United States.

ARMY'S SINGING NON-PATRIOTIC

Survey of 150 Units Shows Waltzes Most Popular With Officers.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—A Czechoslovakian drinking song is the favorite popular music of the army. Viennese waltzes are most popular in officers' clubs and the military jitterbugs seem to be concentrated in the 29th Infantry at Fort Benning, Ga.

Those are the conclusions of a survey of 150 army units which Andre Kostelanetz canvassed to learn their pet ditties.

The song which won the heaviest vote was "The Beer Barrel Polka," a Czech tune which also is popular with the British fighting forces. Best-liked martial air among conscripts is "The Caissons Go Rolling Along."

Tin Pan Alley's new mass production of patriotic songs got few votes among the soldiers, Kostelanetz reported. There were but scattered ballots for "God Bless America" and the soldiers almost ignored such numbers as "I Am an American," and "He's My Uncle."

Individual selections of certain groups were interesting. For instance, the 12th Infantry, Arlington, Va., impartially picked the navy song, "Anchors Aweigh" as its favorite.

The 52d Coast Artillery at Fort Hancock, N. J., rated "Sweet Sue" at the peak and Fort Hayes, Columbus, O., went classical, preferring Sibelius' "Finlandia" to swing.

The "hep cats" of the army were concentrated in Fort Benning, where hot jazz numbers like "In the Mood," "Beat Me Daddy," "One O'Clock Jump" and "Johnson Rag" were demanded.

The old 1st Cavalry at Fort Knox, Ky., now the 1st Armored Regiment, stayed in the Blue Grass tradition. Its favorite song is "The Old Gray Mare."

COMPOSER IN THE ARMY

FORT NIAGARA, N. Y.—(U.P.)—Pvt. William L. Bagley has not put aside his musical activities since induction into the army. The composer of the popular songs "Night Has Begun" and "Quito," Bagley now arranges music for a post band of musically-adept soldiers. Bagley formerly had his own dance band.

GETS ARMY CALL

WASHINGTON —(INS.)— Robert B. Wallace, 23-year-old son of Vice President Henry A. Wallace, is scheduled to be inducted into the army tomorrow. He recently completed studies at the University of Wisconsin.

STUDY SPEEDED FOR ENGINEERS

500 Taking Special Courses at University of Minnesota.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. —(U.P.)— The University of Minnesota, in cooperation with the government, is taking steps to meet a threatened national shortage of engineers in defense production industries.

Nearly 500 men are taking special courses operated by the university which are financed by a $9,000,000 Congressional appropriation — designed to establish "short, extensive courses of college grade" in the nation's engineering schools.

Charles A. Koepke, professor of mechanical engineering, is in charge of the Minnesota program, which is supplementary to the regular engineering curriculum.

According to Koepke, the program is aimed at increasing the 12,000 graduates in engineering in the United States each year—a number far short of increasing demand, particularly in defense industries.

"A survey of New York alone showed that needs in that area call for 7,500 new engineers," Koepke said. "To meet New York's demand, more than half of each year's graduating engineers would have to be taken.

"And the worst of it is the full force of the defense program has not yet been felt. However, it is believed the present college defense training project will do much to close the gap between supply and demand."

The courses run from 12 to 24 weeks, in night and day classes. Ten of the 15 courses are at night 15 hours a week, and the other five are daytime courses of 44 hours weekly class work.

Three Deaths, 21 Injuries Reported By Patrol In July

The Mansfield sub-station of the State Highway Patrol today had reported three fatal accidents for the month of July and 21 accidents resulting in injuries. There were 18 property damage accidents during the month.

During June the Patrol reported one fatality and a total of 38 accidents.

Patrolmen reported 81 arrests during July. Of these, 30 were for unsafe driving, 24 for speeding and 19 for failure to stop at stop signs. Fines resulting from these arrests amounted to $904.50.

Property recovered by the Patrol amounted to $500.00 last month and 77 drivers were examined for permits to drive.

UTAH G.A.R. VET HOLDS REUNION

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah.—(U.P.)—Flags flew on Salt Lake streets one day recently, and there was the usual convention bustle. It was the annual encampment of the Utah department of the Grand Army of the Republic.

In the convention assembly room at a local hotel, Commander Ira Stormes, 95, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Mary H. Schnell, the commander's secretary, read the minutes.

Then Stormes got the convention's approval of bills accrued during the last year. Finally, with business out of her way, he made a brief address.

Then the commander adjourned the convention, and the sole delegate went home. That was Stormes, the last survivor in Utah of the Union army.

GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — Says the Standard dictionary: "fantasmagoria, a changing, incoherent series of apparitions or fantasms." That describes this administration's approach to price control to prevent the threatening national disaster of inflation which the president so well described in his message asking for authority to control prices. All the arguments made for it in that presidential message certainly appeared adequate to this column. That should be the case because they were accurate and complete paraphrases of what has been repeatedly said here for weeks.

But here similarity ceases. There are to be Baruchian ceilings over some prices — but not over others. None whatever is suggested for wages, although labor is warned there also in paragraphs closely following this column) that it has a more vital interest in preventing inflation than any other group.

The utter absurdity of this omission is clear when you consider that the principal element in the cost of every commodity in commerce is wages and salaries of one kind or another. Take the typewriter on which this copy is written. It is made almost entirely of steel. The cost of mining of the iron ore, limestone and coking-coal is almost all labor. So is much of the cost of transportation to blast furnaces and steel mills. So is nearly all processing into steel—not merely in handling the metal but in building the gigantic plants and machinery that finally forge and shape it. So surely it is true of the intricate machining and assembling processes that finally produced this job and of the effort and organization that sold, distributed and serviced it. All things considered, about 95 per cent of this cost and price are wages of one kind or another. So it is of everything we have and use.

Yet we are to put a "ceiling" over this price but none over the component parts of that price. It is exactly like a military command "Company! Halt!" But all the soldiers keep on marching. Plain nonsense.

The recent gyrations in the price of cotton are an example. There is no more excuse for 16 cent cotton than for two tails to a cat. We have a vast overproduction and an overwhelming surplus. Good money can be made on cotton at ten cents. By our recent action toward Japan we have completed, at one stroke, a process in which we have slowly engaged for several years — destroying a principal export market for a crop that depends 50 per cent on exports.

We had been destroying it before by attempting to peg a world price so high that all we really did was to finance foreign competition by such countries as India, Brazil and even Peru to an extent and with a result that Japan bought less and less from us and more and more from them as we were artificially pricing ourselves clear out of the world market. Incidentally, what will those anti-Axis "good neighbors" do to support our action? Or is good-neighborhood only a one-way street?

In the meantime, what was our all-seeing department of agriculture doing to replace this principal reliance of the south? Much could have been done by pushing the almost perfected mechanical decortication of such base fibers as flax, jute, hemp and ramie grass, creating an American production of raw silk and guayule and thus freeing us from our dependence on imports of linen, burlap, cordage, silk and rubber. Nothing was done—except to destroy our export farm markets.

LAUDS GUARDS FOR ACTION IN MILITARY RIOT

Commandant at Knox Asserts M. P.'s 'Did Exactly the Right Thing.'

(By United Press)

FORT KNOX, Ky. — Col. H. Butler Briscoe, commandant of Fort Knox, revealing that 350 soldiers confined to the guardhouse had rioted last Wednesday night, said today that military policemen "did exactly the right thing" in firing over their heads. A soldier was killed by a ricocheting bullet.

Approximately 35,000 soldiers are stationed at the post. Briscoe pointed out that the 350 in the guardhouse represented a very small percentage of the total. Almost all were there, he said, for being absent without leave or for drunkenness or for gambling.

Private Carl B. McClellan, 19, of Bicknell, Ind., an enlisted member of the regular army, was the slain man. He was serving 22 days in the guardhouse for being absent without leave for 11 days.

The rioting began when the guards fired over the heads of three prisoners they had detected in the act of climbing over two barbed wire fences surrounding the four barracks, mess hall and cluster of tents which form the post guardhouse. The other prisoners poured from the barracks and began throwing rocks at the guards and their officers, Briscoe said. At least four of the six guards fired over the heads of the milling prisoners. A fire hose finally was used to halt the rioting.

Briscoe said ballistics tests were being made to identify the guard who fired the fatal shot. That guard will be charged with manslaughter before a military court and the others will also be court martialed. This procedure was customary he said, and did not indicate that the army believed the guards should be punished.

Briscoe said he did not intend to submit a report to the war department.

"I don't need any help from them," he said. "The incident is all closed and cleared up."

He reported that 350 prisoners was "about average." The rioters will lose their good behavior time and the three who tried to escape will be court martialed. The usual sentence for an escape attempt is four months.

Up and Down THE STREET

Don Cram, secretary of the Buckeye hobby club, is watching the coming club auction with the eye of a chemist seeking a new vitamin. It remains to be seen, he says, whether hobby collectors of different "rare" articles are going to be mutually enthused about each other's collection. If a collector of colored stones can get excited enough to bid on parts of a collection of railroad lanterns, it will show that collectors will collect anything, Cram says.

It's all in getting used to the idea of haircuts—at least that's what Timmie, a wire-haired terrier, belonging to Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Flory, South Boulevards, thinks about it. When the summer heat first arrived bringing his initial trim, Timmie objected loudly and strenuously. But on his second visit to the barber the other day he enjoyed himself so much that he found it difficult to hold his wagging tail still long enough for it to be clipped.

While most of the women of Mansfield are crowding stores in an effort to buy up a supply of silk stockings because of the recent governmental order abandoning their manufacture, other residents of the city are shying away from the word "stocking." Residents of Stocking avenue have decided that they wish the name changed to something less prosaic They will petition council to change the street name to Idlewood road, Kinsman drive or something else with a little more dignity than "Stocking."

HEAVY BUYING ESTABLISHES PEAK VOLUME

Dealers Predict Compulsory Rationing of Fuel as Result.

(By Associated Press)

A welter of sectional reports, in the absence of any official judgment as to the success or failure of the eastern seaboard's first gasoline curfew last (Sunday) night, appeared today to boil down to these points:

1. Virtually all service stations from Maine to Florida (except for half of New York City's independents) complied with Petroleum Coordinator Harold L. Ickes' request to close from 7 p. m. to 7 a. m. daily as a national defense measure to conserve gasoline.

2. The day-time scale of gasoline everywhere along the eastern seaboard exceeded the total volume of an average August Sunday's day-time sales.

3. Traffic was just as heavy and in many places heavier than usual buying during the after-dark hours.

In New York City the chain stations closed promptly at 7 p. m., but about one-half of the independents, which constitute 50 per cent of the city's total, remained open.

Highways skirting Long Island's shores, however, were without gasoline service and motorists who had ventured into outlying regions without getting sufficient fuel had to abandon their stalled cars. Traffic on all major highways, over the toll bridges and through tunnels was reported about normal.

Throughout New England, the friendly flicker of service station neons was missing from darkened highways, and compliance with Ickes' request was considered just about 100 per cent.

Stranded cars were numerous in Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut and in some cases motorists hired horses to haul their stranded gasoline buggies.

New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, the Carolinas, Virginia, Georgia and Florida reported similar experience. Through the southeastern states, as elsewhere, police received numerous calls from motorists seeking aid to get gasoline or reporting they would have to leave their cars in the street for the night.

COMPANY READY TO CO-OPERATE

Ohio Brass Officials Set To Comply With Request For Hearing on Dispute.

Ohio Brass company officials today expressed willingness to comply with a defense mediation board request made Saturday for a hearing of union disputes which stopped production at the Barberton plant and caused a one day holiday at the Mansfield company July 16, a company spokesman said.

The board asked for postponement of any union action at Mansfield and a resumption of work at the Barberton plant as "speedily as possible."

The mediation board set a hearing of the two disputes for Aug. 11, and asked that attempts be resumed to reach an agreement with a labor department conciliator before that time.

Previous meetings for company officials and union representatives with a labor department conciliator left the disputes unsettled.

Meanwhile the Richland county Industrial Union council, (CIO) had voted today to support members of the Ohio Brass local in their attempts to secure union recognition at the Mansfield plant, according to Fred Simon, council secretary.

The council, Simon said, voted unanimously to give full cooperation to the Ohio Brass local at a meeting of delegates and officers from local CIO groups held at the Westinghouse union headquarters last week, Simon said.

Union officials could not be reached today, however, to elucidate on the meaning of the Council's use of the words "support" and "co-operation."

Worried Father Plunges To Death As Baby Arrives

NEW YORK—(UP)—Months ago George Fulling, 35, a clerk, was informed that his wife was going to have a baby and he began to worry about her health.

He worried so much that a month ago he required medical attention.

Saturday, Mrs. Fulling entered a hospital and her husband paced the corridor of the maternity ward so long that physicians ordered him to leave.

Yesterday he returned and, being informed that Mrs. Fulling's baby hadn't been delivered yet, paced until his father took him home.

A few hours later he plunged to his death from a window in his father's apartment. Less than an hour before he plunged, Mrs. Fulling gave birth normally and today she and her son were in excellent condition.

ADVISES VEGETABLE GROWERS TO CULTIVATE SPECIAL CROPS

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—An industrial research expert advised the nation's vegetable growers today to begin producing raw materials which the United States has been buying from abroad.

Great opportunities await the American truck farmer in the cultivation of special crops essential to industry, especially since the war has reduced or cut off imports of numerous products, said Dr. Paul Kolachov of Louisville, Ky., in a paper prepared for delivery before the Vegetable Growers Association of America.

The association opened its 33rd annual convention today, anticipating 2,000 delegates who represent the leadership in a $567,776,000-a-year industry.

As examples of plants which could receive more attention, Dr. Kolachov, director of research and development for Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, Inc., cited licorice, which is used for flavoring and is imported from Spain and Russia, orris root, used to make antiseptic dusting powder; calamus, the source of a mild laxative, and angelica, a heart stimulant.

"At present," he said, "these plants are now grown on a commercial basis but are found in back yards and waste places. The writer would like to see cultivation become a matter of mass production under a definite program. Domestic industry would be able to obtain raw materials of better quality."

A. C. Thompson of Morrisville, Pa., association president, urged the truck gardeners to make more use of plant food and insecticides in order to raise products of higher nutritional value.

He pointed out that Dr. J. B. Hestler of the Campbell Soup company found that by adding manganese sulfate to fertilizer he could almost double the vitamin C content of tomatoes.

The farmers, Thompson asserted, must keep abreast of changes in food-consuming habits. Improvements in transportation and working conditions, he added, have reduced the average person's activity; people have turned more to fresh fruits and vegetables because less energy and heat-producing foods are needed for bodily maintenance.

SUSPECT HELD

Former Reformatory Inmate Admits Part In Shootings.

A former Ohio State Reformatory inmate, a 36-year-old Detroit man who identified himself as Thomas Williams, was arrested in Toledo last night in connection with the wounding Friday of three Toledoans, two fatally.

Police said the suspect was a former O.S.R. inmate, and that he admitted he was paroled from Ohio penitentiary, July 1, where he had served nine years for burglary.

The suspect admitted shooting two men when they resisted his attempt to commandeer their auto, police said. A third victim, an ice-company cashier, was in serious condition today, according to Associated Press dispatches.

Mansfield Camera Fans Click Shots At Buckeye Lake

The click of 35 Mansfield camera shutters blended yesterday with those of 125 others at Buckeye Lake as Ohio lensmen enjoyed a field day as guests of the Buckeye Lake Yacht club.

Pictures made at the lake—from land, from sailboats and from power craft—will be entered in a photo contest being sponsored by the yacht club, with three trophies as prizes.

Giles Hamilton, president of the Mansfield Photographic society, said 35 Mansfielders made the trip to the lake. He estimated that about 160 color photographs were made by the Mansfielders, and about 1,000 black-and-white shots.

Al Strachan will receive pictures entered in the Buckeye Lake contest, and Aug. 15 is the last date on which they may be entered. Strachan's address is 248 South Mulberry street. Strachan and Robert File, Columbus, were in charge of the Mansfield delegation to the lake.

The society will have a showing of summer pictures at its meeting at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the Farmers' bank building, Hamilton announced. The showing is open to the public

Ninth Inning Rally Wins Thriller for Mansfield Braves

Sport Podge by Rex Hess

This is something I know you never expected to see in this column, but the old Podger rises today to ask for a bit of leniency by the fans in their judgment of Umpire Bill Ward whose work at the Fairground yesterday was far from good, and little better than that the night before.

Most umpires and ball players know that even the best of guessers will have a bad day now and then, but it seems that Bill saved up his season's quota to spill in the last two days.

But he's been the best in the league all season, so don't howl too loudly. Gosh, think what we might get if we chased him out of the circuit.

Bill missed a three-and-two pitch on the Mad Russian Kolos of the Lima Pandas yesterday that was ludicrous.

Even Kolos knew the pitch was in there for a third strike, and he tossed his bat away and strolled to the dugout.

Imagine his surprise when he learned Ward had called it a ball, and was ordering him to do his strolling to first base.

Eddie, the Mighty Man,
Stepped up to the pan,
And the game began
In the ninth,
All over again.

Yes sir, it was a new ball game after Mutryn led off in the ninth and slammed a home run over the left field wall to tie the score at 9-9, and the crowd that had started dejectedly through the gate came back to see the happy finish.

It was rather late to start a new ball game, but better late than never, and the ninth inning rally that won for the Braves over the Pandas yesterday just proved once more that Mansfield has a ball club that hustles right down to the final out.

News from last year's Braves now in army camps.

Herb Woodten is a private at Camp San Luis Obispo, California, after spending 13 weeks at Camp Wolters, Tex. They had no ball club at Wolters, so Herb managed the softball team, and did a bit of boxing, so they made him a physical instructor.

Feller Crashes Through

Gets 20th Victory as Tribe Splits With A's.

CLEVELAND—(AP)— Bob Feller had his 20th victory in the bag today and the Indians came back to the wigwam with only four wins from their 11 game eastern journey.

Cleveland's top pitcher won yesterday from the Philadelphia Athletics, 6 to 3, but the A's came back in the second half of a doubleheader to win, 4 to 3, the loss being Clint Brown's after he had relieved Joe Heving.

* * *

That made it two out of three for the series, which was a good showing for this trip, as the Redskins lost three to the Yanks, took one of three from Boston and split a pair with Washington.

Feller allowed only three hits, but issued seven passes, which led to the A's runs.

The Indians landed on Lester McCrabb, Chubby Dean, Bill Beckman and Bump Hadley for 12 hits, and were never headed after taking the lead in the third.

In the nightcap, Jeff Heath's third-inning homer gave Cleveland its second run and an early lead, but the A's staged a five-hit three-run blast in the fifth. The Indians tied the score in the eighth, on the power of Larry Rosenthal's double, but the A's settled the issue in the ninth when Wally Moses doubled, McCoy was passed, Johnson singled, and Moses came home after Siebert's fly.

While the Tribe was resting today, it became known that Mel Harder may seek an operation to remove three bone chips from his elbow.

* * *

Should he go on the voluntary retired list for repairs, it would solve the question of how to make room on the active list for Cleveland's recent purchase, Pitcher Charles (Red) Embree of the farm at Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Tomorrow night the Tribe is host to the Tigers in the Stadium.

On this day this particular story is bound to be about pitching, and it could emphasize several kinds, all of them good.

It could, for instance, go into detail about Bob Feller's 20th victory or the twin shutouts of Cincinnati by Jim Tobin and Johnny Hutchings of the Boston Braves.

But the biggest palm must go to two elbowers who don't come close to Feller in brilliance.

They are a pair of right-handers, Johnny Niggeling and Bob Harris, and they labor in the comparative obscurity of the St. Louis Browns' Niggeling, a veteran of 36, who was picked up on waivers from Cincinnati winter before last, and Harris, a comparative youngster of 25, tossed in on the Buck Newsom deal two years ago.

Yet they caught the attention of the entire baseball world yesterday by stopping the New York Yankees cold.

Niggeling, in the opener of a double-header, pitched a four-hitter that beat the American league leaders, 6-2, and broke Charley Ruffing's winning streak at nine straight. He not only kept Joe DiMaggio hitless for the first time in 17 contests, but was the first pitcher in 84 games able to keep the great Guiseppe from getting on base.

Then Harris came along with a handsome two-hitter in the nightcap for a 5-0 shutout, the first Yank blanking since May 30. He also held DiMag without a hit, and completed destruction of another Yankee record—that of not having lost a double-header all season.

Ted Lyons, who didn't walk a man, had 18-hit support from the White Sox in gaining his 9-0 triumph over the Senators.

The Detroit Tigers built up an early lead for Hal Newhouser as he turned back the Boston Red Sox, 6-3.

Mort Cooper, making his first start for the St. Louis Cardinals since June 17, and Lon Warneke, getting his 130th win of the year, combined to hold the Phillies to 11 hits for two 6-1 victories.

* * *

Cooper, operated upon June 23 for removal of a bone growth on his pitching arm, showed no signs of after-affects while allowing only six safeties. Warneke turned in a five-hitter.

The Dodgers, ending their western trip with a four-game winning string, collected 15 hits in beating the Cubs 10-2.

For the Boston Braves it was five-hit pitching by Tobin and a three-hit job by Hutchings that blanked the Cincinnati Reds, 5-0 and 3-0. The New York Giants relapsed into their losing ways as they bowed to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-4 and 10-4, the latter in only six innings because of the Pennsylvania Sunday curfew.

PAYS FOR PROTEST

CHICAGO—(AP)—Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers was fined $50 for a 13-minute protest in the Dodgers' game Saturday with the Chicago Cubs. President Ford Frick of the National league said today. Durocher delayed the game to protest against an umpire's reversal of a decision.

Opposing Hurlers In Tonight's Game At Fairground

HAL SCHUMACHER

Picked to oppose the great Satchel Paige tonight at the Fairground when a strengthened Liberty Park team meets the Kansas City Monarchs, world colored baseball champions, is "Prince Hal" Schumacher, bespectacled right hander from Evansville of the Three-I league, who is waiting induction into the army. Schumacher won 34 games against three defeats for Owensboro to lead the Kitty League two years ago, and last season, pitching for Evansville, let the Detroit Tigers down with seven hits, winning 7 to 5.

SATCHEL PAIGE

Pro Pitcher Picked For Liberties, Faces Satchel

"Prince Hal" Schumacher will pitch for the Mansfield Liberty Parks baseball team against the Kansas City Monarchs, world colored champs, who will use Satchel Paige on the firing line on the Ohio State league diamond in the Fairgrounds here tonight at 8:30. It will be an exhibition game.

Schumacher led the Kitty league with 34 wins against three defeats for Owensboro in 1939, and last year, pitching for the Evansville Three-I league team, defeated the Detroit Tigers 7 to 5 in an exhibition game, allowing the big leaguers but seven hits in nine innings.

Schumacher has been unbeatable with Vicksburg in the Cotton States league this season, but has been drafteld. The game here tonight will probably be his last before reporting to Uncle Sam. Other pitchers whom Manager Joe Atton of the locals has available to shoot against the colored champs include Hazlett and Bender.

The desire to see the celebrated and highly publicized Satchel Paige pitch, even part of the game, overshadows the ball game itself. Never in the history of colored baseball has any one man so popularized the game as "Ole Satchmo."

In ten Sunday showings "the man who brings the grip" has attracted 230,000 paid customers. Joe DiMaggio, the great Yankee slugger, speaking of Satchel says, "He's the fastest there is." And don't forget DiMaggio faces the blazing fast ball of Bobby Feller on several occasions each summer.

Fans who are fortunate enough to be at the Fairground tonight will readily see that the Monarchs are a Big League club in every respect. They look and act the part.

The Monarch infield of Jimmy Williams, Newt Allen, Rainey Bibbs and Bucky O'Neill is letter perfect and puts on an infield workout which is as good as the game. Power and more power prevails in the gardens, which are patrolled by Willard Brown, the "Colored Babe Ruth." "Marvel Man" Simms and Ted Strong, the latter a star basketball player with the Harlem Globe Trotters. "Steel Arm" Green will catch tonight and with any other club than the Monarchs, he would steal the show with his deadly pegging to bases.

Manager Joe Atton, who will catch for the Parks, has added Outfielder Patterson and Infielder Lockhart from the Ontario semi-pro club, and Nick Weber to his personnel.

Alvin Jones, regular Piedmont league umpire, who has been on sick leave, and Duke Taraschke, former Ohio State league umpire, are being brought here to render decisions.

* * *

Unless all indications fail, a classic long to be remembered will be unveiled in the Fairground tonight and with good weather prevailing, the largest crowd to see a game here in years will be on hand.

The line-up:

MONARCHS WIN TWO

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Satch Paige, whose age is considered to be anywhere from 35 to 41, today had convinced Clevelanders that it's true what they say about the almost legendary Negro pitcher. Paige worked four innings of the nightcap yesterday as the Kansas City Monarchs took a double-header from the St. Louis Stars, and gave five hits, one run, fanned five and walked only one. The Monarchs won, 6-5 and 5-1.

Special Softball Series Scheduled

A three-game series that has all the earmarks of a Mansfield softball championship battle, has been scheduled between Westinghouse with its former Sons of Herman stars, and Mansfield Hardware Co., with a lineup composed largely of last year's All-Stars who hooked up with Sons of Herman in the 1940 title series.

First game is scheduled at Johns Park Thursday at 6 p. m.

Picked for the Hardware team are: Aston, c-of, Fullager, p. K. Ross, 2b, Farrell, 1b, Stichler, ss, W. Lockhart, of, K. Lockhart, of, Balbaugh, r, N. Weber, 3b, Judy, of, F. Carver, p-of, R. Hunt, c. K. Mapes, inf, Lapine, utility and coach.

All Mansfield Hardware players are asked to contact Harold Aston at the East Side Nite club by tomorrow night.

Mutryn and Clowson Pack Winning Punch

Eddie Clouts Homer To Tie Score, Alex Smacks Single, Ending Game

MANSFIELD'S Braves almost kicked a game away yesterday afternoon at the Fairground, but they came roaring back with a ninth-inning two-run rally to snatch a 10 to 9 thriller from the Lima Pandas.

Harry Siegbert drew a walk, but was forced at second by Bill Salem. With Bill Reinka at bat, Salem stole second and continued on to third when Shortstop Bonomo let the throw to second get away from him.

Manager Alex Clowson then replaced Reinka in the batter's box, and the Pandas wisely decided to walk him. But Clowson crossed them up by attempting to bunt, and with the count two strikes and one ball Lima gambled on a third strike and pitched to him.

It was a poor decision. Clowson crossed them up again with a line drive single to right center, scoring Salem, and the ball game was over.

Mansfield started out to make a walk-away of the game, gaining a 7 to 0 lead in the first three innings.

The Braves picked up three more runs in the second on Bob Kuzava's double over the first base bag, a walk to TeStruth, and singles by Morse and Mutryn.

And they added another run in the third when Salem walked, stole second, and came home on Bobby Ankrum's single.

Kuzava ran into some bad luck in the fifth when ordinary singles too bad hops in the outfield and went for three doubles by Hubbard, Kavanaugh and Kolos. Walks to Drexler and Snoddy and singles by Boskey and Bonomo rounded out a five-run splurge and Lima was back in the ball game.

Rudy Okleson started on the mound for the Braves in the sixth, but was wild, and before Pat Patterson and his sore arm could be rushed to the rescue the Pandas had scored two runs and tied the count at 7 to 7.

Mansfield took the lead again in the last of the sixth when Morse singled, went to second on an error, to third on a wild pitch, and scored on an infield out.

But Lima tied it up with one run in the seventh and went ahead with another in the eighth. For the first inning in the ball game, Lima went down without a hit in the ninth, and they needed several as it later developed.

* * *

For those Braves weren't through yet. They still had that ninth inning rally coming up.

Keefe-Spear Seek Crown

Battle For City Tennis Title Next Sunday.

The firing was hot and heavy and prolonged in The News-Journal City tennis tournament yesterday, and there were some very weary racquet swingers in Mansfield today, but non so weary as Bob Keefe, the table-tennis star.

Keefe advanced to the finals of the men's singles with a five-set victory over Thornton Moore, rallying to take the last two sets after Moore had captured two of the first three.

Moore had all the best of it over the consistent court-covering Keefe in the first set to win 6-2, but Keefe's ability to return all shots with a minimum of error began to make itself known in the second set as he came through to a 6-4 edge.

The next two sets went to deuce with Moore taking the third set at 8-6, and Keefe the fourth at 7-5 Then came the deciding set with Keefe winning 6-4.

After a short rest Keefe attempted to play doubles with Andy Zoll against Larson and Meese, but a long drawn-out first set spelled the end of the day for Mr. Keefe.

Larson-Meese took the first one 14-12, and coasted to a love set victory in the second.

Bob Spear had trouble in battling his way to the finals of the men's singles, downing Lowell Bourns in four deuce sets, 8-6, 4-6, 8-6 and 7-5.

So it will be the hard-hitting No. 1 man from Purdue against the ground covering southpaw from the table courts in the city finals next Sunday.

Semi-finals in men's doubles scheduled this week are: Spear-Enos vs. Bourns-Slabaugh, Wednesday, 5 p. m, Woodlawn; and Ellison-Moore vs. Larson-Meese, Thursday, 5 p. m. Woodlawn.

The mixed doubles and women's singles get under way this week on the following schedule:

Mixed doubles—Arron-Spear vs. Woodlawn; Fisher-Alderson vs. Moore-Moore, Monday, 5 p. m., Pittenger-Perman, Tuesday, 5 p. m., Maple lake; Fisher-Franzen vs. Gregoria-Zoll. Wednesday, 5 p. m., Maple lake; Winegartner-Enos vs. Olin-Quinlan, Thursday, 5 p. m., Maple lake.

Women's singles — Winegartner vs. Gregoria, Wednesday 5 p. m., Johns Park; Arron vs. Fisher, Friday 5 p. m., Johns Park.

The name "Winegartner" appears in the lists for the first time today, but it isn't a late entry. It's the new name of the defending women's champion, Lois Shuey, who returned to town last night after a 750-mile honeymoon trip.

Junior players in both boys and girls divisions are asked to get in touch with Vic Alderson immediately for their schedule of play this week at Johns park.

A forfeit by Them to Butler has rounded out the pairings for semi-final play in junior singles.

Red Birds Set Pace With Double Win

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The Columbus Red Birds are in first place in the American Association today—that coveted goal reached by Sunday's double-barreled victory over Indianapolis, 5 to 1 and 4 to 3.

And, although Burt Shotten's crew has only a one-game edge, if the pitching holds up it is doubtful if Minneapolis, Louisville or Kansas City can oust the Birds.

Preacher Roe set the Indians down with five hits in the first game and Harry Brecheen registered victory No. 12 in the nightcap.

Kansas City, trying to fight back from a slump cooperated with the Birds by knocking Minneapolis over twice, 9 to 7 and 6 to 2. Louisville, the pacesetter in mid-July, slid back to fourth place and surrender third to the Blues when Toledo whipped the Colonels twice, 3 to 1 and 2 to 1.

St. Louis defeated Milwaukee in the other Sunday bargain bill, 4 to 3 and 7 to 4.

Liberties Win In Tune-Up

Hazlett Stops Ontario With Four Bingles.

The Liberty Parks trounced Ontario 6-2 yesterday at Liberty Park in a tune-up tussle for tonight's game with the Kansas City Monarchs at the Fairground.

Hurler Hazlett worked himself out of the clutches with some nice pitching as he fanned 12 Ontario stick wielders, walked three. Lewis with three out of five and "Tubby" Freiheit, with a double and a single, paced the Parkmen's attack.

* * *

Hazlett gave up four scattered hits while the Liberties were getting to Petie Beer for 11 bingles. Beer whiffed four.

The Liberty Park-Monarch fray will start at 8:30 p. m.

NEW METHODS GIVE DEFENSES HARDER STEEL

Substitute Alloys Are Found To Be More Efficient In Fabricating.

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—The metal industry is keeping pace with the demands of the national defense program by perfecting new and better methods of fabricating the steel used in the manufacture of airplanes, tanks, battleships and guns.

Research scientists have developed superior processes for hardening the surfaces of steel plates used in war armament and have discovered substitute alloys which are proving more efficient than metals previously used in war machinery.

William H. Eisenman, secretary of the American Society for Metals, disclosed that the great majority of the nation's leading metallurgists have been drafted to work on the perfection of new steel fabricating methods.

Eisenman, who was in Southern California prior to the annual Western Metal Congress, which brought about 3,000 metallurgists and technicians together for a five-day conference, said that highly satisfactory progress has been made in the attempt to improve metal fabricating.

Eisenman revealed that "shot blasting," formerly used only to harden surfaces of large springs in automobiles and locomotives, now is being applied to the smaller springs of motors in aircraft and other military transportation units.

"The shot blast bombards the metal parts with tiny steel balls," he said. "These hammer the surface to a hard, smooth finish which possesses great resiliency."

A new form of gas has been found, Eisenman said, which is forced into heat-treatment ovens to form a protective "blanket" for metals in temperatures as high as 2,500 degrees, Fahrenheit.

This new "blanket", he disclosed, prevents loss of carbon from the steel and maintains the high quality of the product. With this protection, modern war tanks will be able to withstand terrific heat and still keep a high degree of safety.

Without the "blanket," carbon often escapes through surface oxidation when the temperature zooms to the upper brackets.

WATER BARREL REDUCES RATS

ANTELL, Kas.—(U.P.)—A steel water barrel has turned out to be a good rat trap on the farm of Earl and Paul Landreth near here.

The mechanism of the trap is very simple, the Landreths say. The rats run up a board which leans against the barrel. On gaining the top, they reach out to get a drink of water. Then comes the blow. The water is just out of reach. The rats lean over too far, lose their balance and fall in.

They drown like rats. In fact the Landreths get rid of about 50 that way in one week.

BOY SETTLES DOWN TO EARTH

RENO, Nev.—(U.P.)—The little boy with his feet in the back of everybody's chair at the circus first wanted to be an apprentice lionlimer, but when Capt. Nobel Hamiter, trainer, was bitten in the last half of his act, the little boy decided it would be better to learn in another department.

"The only thing I can really do," he observed, "is to fall off the bicycle like the monkey."

Wallops Ghezzi For Unofficial Title.

By LARRY HAUCK

GIRARD, O.—(AP)—Craig Wood, covering up his 39 years with youthful vigor, today reigned over the world of golf as a climax to one of the greatest comebacks in the history of the game.

Winner of the national open and masters' tournaments but eliminated in the P. G. A. classic as he sought the coveted "triple," the blond veteran took the shortest detour to his goal.

Shooting nine under par, he walloped Vic Ghezzi, the pro king, in a special 72-hole match for the unofficial world championship. Besides the mythical title, the 5 and 4 victory gave Wood $2,500.

Ghezzi never got under way, either on the greens or with his famed short game. The match ended on the 68th green with Wood dropping a three-footer for a half after Ghezzi's second shot rolled off the carpet.

They played out the 72 holes with the victor carding 63-70-68-70—271 and the New Jersey pro 71-69-68-69—277. For the 68, Wood had an eagle, 14 birdies and 8 bogeys. Ghezzi collected 13 birds and 10 one-overs.

The loser, 10 years Wood's junior and once his pupil, said "That 63 was too much for me."

Craig's next start will be in the $5,000 Rochester, N. Y., Times-Union tournament Aug. 15-17.

Stroh's Sink Wooster Club

Joe Mayer Breaks Par By Three Strokes.

Mansfield Stroh's Bohemian Beers golf team swamped the Riceland Country club team at Wooster yesterday 36-4, but the victory wasn't as easily won as the score would indicate.

All matches were close, and most of them were decided on the last few holes.

Joe Mayer turned in a sparkling three-under-par 67 for the 18-hole layout for medal honors. On the first nine he had five birdies for a 33.

* * *

FRITZ CRISLER ACCEPTS ALL-STARS' STAFF JOB

CHICAGO—(U.P.)—Athletic Director Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler, Michigan's head football coach, accepted a bid today to join the five-man coaching staff for the College All-Star football squad.

Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern, Homer Norton of Texas A. & M., and Orin Hollingberry of Washington State previously had been chosen to coach the team that will meet the Professional Champion Chicago Bears Aug. 28.

The eastern member of the staff and the identity of the head coach will be disclosed tomorrow.

Army Hires A Woman's Editor

Taking cognizance of women's opinions in present day affairs, the war department has enlisted the aid of a woman, Mrs. William P Hobby, executive vice president of the Houston Post, to be the United States Army's woman's editor. Mrs. Hobby says that her task will be "to tell the story of the army to women along the lines they are more interested in, personalized news of their sons, husbands, brothers and sweethearts."

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — "My Life With Caroline." Screenplay by John Van Druten and Arnold Belgard from play by Louis Verneuil and Georges Berr. Directed by Lewis Milestone. Principals: Ronald Colman, Ann Lee, Charles Winninger, Reginald Gardiner, Gilbert Roland, Katherine Leslie, Hugh O'Connell, Murray Alper, Matt Moore.

This could be subtitled, "Milestone Takes a Holiday." The director, best known for such serious, earthy, or lusty pieces as "The Front Page," "All Quiet on the Western Front," and "Of Mice and Men," here tries his hand at light and frothy comedy.

Caroline is a pretty, giddy, and romantically susceptible young wife married to a suave, but very busy, publisher who understands her foibles, including her propensity for falling in love with romantic young men.

As the story opens, Caroline (Lee) is madly in love with a handsome Latin (Roland) and is all set to fly back home to break the news to her husband. At the airport, having received her wire that she has something important to tell him, the patient spouse appears. This, of course, is Colman, suave, distinguished and thoroughly master of the situation.

Watching Caroline's fond goodbye to her new lover, Anthony turns to the audience and gets chummy. He knows what's going on, he says, and he'll tell us all about in a minute. He does, and so we dissolve into the story of "his life with Caroline."

Before the handsome Latin, it was the understanding sculptor, Paul (Gardiner). And there was the same spirit of deathless romance between Caroline and Paul. It was all very cricket, of course, and Caroline was going to tell Anthony of her pending divorce and elopement. But Anthony found out first, and by devious clever means — especially clever in a husband who "didn't understand" his wife — thwarted all developments.

The picture is consistently light, consistently frothy, consistently suave and gay—almost too much so. There are times when a little more action and less talk, preferably on the slapstick side, would be welcome. Perhaps the trouble is that giddy wives (even when played as captivatingly as Anna Lee plays Caroline) make patience-taxing screen material for these important times. As the customer in the next row observed, "What's he want to bother keeping her for, anyway?"

Winninger, as the father-in-law who trails patiently in the romantic wake, worried lest his future bread be unbuttered by Caroline's new prospect, is capital, and Gardiner and Roland do well by their suitor's roles. O'Connell's butler is the kind that ought to be in every home—for laughs.

BOOTS POFFENBERGER

By ROMNEY WHEELER

BUFORD, Ga.—(AP)—The way Cletus Poffenberger feels about it now, it will be all right with him if he never pitches another game in organized baseball.

Plain-spoken Mr. Poffenberger, nicknamed Boots, is under 90-day suspension in the Southern Association for sounding off on an umpire's decision and backing it up with a fast ball which zoomed off the arbiter's chest protector. That dropped him from Nashville's pitching staff for the balance of the 1941 season and first 15 days of 1942.

But Boots isn't looking for any sympathy. The big fellow, whose screwball tendencies got him in difficulties with Detroit and later with Brooklyn, signed with the Buford semi-pro Shoemakers. And as far as he is concerned, he'd just as soon stay here from now on.

Here's How.

"How did I get let out by Detroit? Well, I had a row over money with 'em just like I did with Brooklyn. They never did pay me what I was worth, and they said I never gave them all I had. So what! The most I ever got in the big show was $500 a month. That's for five months. And the other seven months you don't draw a dime."

Poffenberger thinks the Buford team, sponsored by the Bona Allen Shoe company, has an ideal set-up.

"I'd like to stay here. I'd work in the plant in the off season, and play baseball in the summer. I tell you, this outfit has a real first-class team. They treat you right.

"What about Nashville? Well, Nashville still holds my contract. I don't know just what I'll do yet. I'll see what Nashville offers next spring. If I can do better over here, I'd just as soon ask for voluntary retirement. My wife likes it here."

Boots won his first start for Buford, beating a nearby semi-pro textile team 4-1.

Boots doesn't care to discuss the escapades which earned him his reputation as one of baseball's screwballs. His career with Detroit in 1937-38 and Brooklyn in 1939 is so much water over the dam. He wound up on the suspended list after jumping Brooklyn in mid-1939, was reinstated through efforts of Larry Gilbert in 1940.

Good Record.

He had a good year under Gilbert, winning 26 and losing 9 to help Nashvill win the Southern Association pennant and later the Dixie Series. Gilbert, pleased with the reformation, tried to peddle him to a big league club last winter, but found no takers.

* * *

"I don't expect to get back in the big-time," says Poffenberger, "and I sure don't care to kick around the minor leagues until I'm worn out. I'd just as soon stay right here with Buford."

Poffenberger now is headed west with the team on a 6,000-mile swing which is to include semi-pro tournaments at Denver, Houston, Tex., and Wichita, Kas., where Buford twice has won national championships. He thinks he'll be eligible to pitch in the Denver Post's tournament, but must watch from the bench at Houston and Wichita where his current Southern league suspension bars him.

"That suspension's got me now," he says. "But look out next year. If I stay with Buford I'll really go to town."

REPORTS TO REDS

CINCINNATI—(INS)—Eddie Lukon, 20-year-old rightfielder of the Knoxville Southern Association club, will report to the Cincinnati Reds this week, General Manager Warren Giles announced today. Lukon, obtained for cash and another player to be sent to Knoxville before next March 1, has hit 23 homers this season and is batting .306.

DAN NOLAN DIES

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Death followed an emergency operation for Dan J. Nolan, 58, Cleveland boxing commission member for the last five years. Formerly a music company executive, he once served as president of the National Music Merchants' association.

Sam Barry Rumored To Succeed Jones

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The Los Angeles Times said today it had learned from an authoritative source that Justin M. (Sam) Barry had accepted the position of head coach of football at the University of Southern California.

The paper said that all that remained to make his appointment as Coach Howard Jones' successor official was the signature of President Rufus B. Von KleinSmid to the contracts, forthcoming within a few days.

Jones died July 27. Barry, 48, had worked with him for more than 20 years, 16 of them at U. S. C. He has been the Trojan basketball and baseball coach.

FANCY FIELDER

DETROIT—(AP)—Johnny Gorsica is perhaps Detroit's best fielding pitcher, and there's a reason: Gorsica broke into baseball as a first baseman with Beckley, W. Va.

THEATERS

Rollicking Comedy.

"The Bride Came C. O. D.," playing at the Ohio with Bette Davis and James Cagney in the starring roles, has one humorous complication after another. Cagney plays an aviator, hired to fly an eloping girl and her sweetheart, enacted by Jack Carson, to Las Vegas to be married. Believing he can get more money from the girl's father by returning her, unmarried, Cagney decides to kidnap the bride. The plane grounds in the desert and a battle between the aviator and girl ensue as the latter attempts to return to her fiance. Harry Davenport and Eugene Pallette are featured.

Dinsey Novelties.

Lavish Spectacle.

Hedy Lemarr, Judy Garland and James Stewart help top the cast in the elaborate spectacle, "Ziegfeld Girl," playing at the Ritz. Lana Turner is also featured in the story of three girls and what success in a great musical show did for them. Roy Rogers in "Nevada City," is the companion picture.

Louisiana Escapade.

Marlene Dietrich takes a spill in the mud as she encounters a rough riverboat captain in "The Flame of New Orleans," showing at the Park. Posing as a continental noblewoman she invades New Orleans in search of a husband and then is forced to play the part of another imposter to cover up a slip in her manner. Roland Young portrays the millionaire who succumbs to her charms, and Bruce Cabot has the role of a river captain who discovers her true character Mischa Auer, Andy Devine and Laura Hope Crews are in the cast. "Petticoat Politics," with Roscoe Karns is the second attraction.

Before the war the United States imported more than a million dollars worth of cloves and vanilla beans from Madagascar every year.

Sport Podge by REX HESS

This is something I know you never expected to see in this column, but the old Podger rises today to ask for a bit of leniency by the fans in their judgment of Umpire Bill Ward whose work at the Fairground yesterday was far from good, and little better than that the night before.

Most umpires and ball players know that even the best of guessers will have a bad day now and then, but it seems that Bill saved up his season's quota to spill in the last two days.

But he's been the best in the league all season, so don't howl too loudly. Gosh, think what we might get if we chased him out of the circuit.

Bill missed a three-and-two pitch on the Mad Russian Kolos of the Lima Pandas yesterday that was ludicrous.

Even Kolos knew the pitch was in there for a third strike, and he tossed his bat away and strolled to the dugout.

Imagine his surprise when he learned Ward had called it a ball, and was ordering him to do his strolling to first base.

Eddie, the Mighty Man,
Stepped up to the pan,
And the game began
In the ninth,
All over again.

Yes sir, it was a new ball game after Mutryn led off in the ninth and slammed a home run over the left field wall to tie the score at 9-9, and the crowd that had started dejectedly through the gate came back to see the happy finish.

It was rather late to start a new ball game, but better late than never, and the ninth inning rally that won for the Braves over the Pandas yesterday just proved once more that Mansfield has a ball club that hustles right down to the final out.

News from last year's Braves now in army camps:

Herb Woodien is a private at Camp San Luis Obispo, California, after spending 13 weeks at Camp Wolters, Tex. They had no ball club at Wolters, so Herb managed the softball team, and did a bit of boxing, so they made him a physical instructor.

Howard Beals star shortstop, is riding a horse in the cavalry at Imperial, Calf

Feller Crashes Through

Gets 20th Victory as Tribe Splits With A's.

CLEVELAND—(AP)— Bob Feller had his 20th victory in the bag today and the Indians came back to the wigwam with only four wins from their 11 game eastern journey.

Cleveland's top pitcher won yesterday from the Philadelphia Athletics, 6 to 3, but the A's came back in the second half of a doubleheader to win, 4 to 3, the loss being Clint Brown's after he had relieved Joe Heving.

That made it two out of three for the series, which was a good showing for this trip, as the Redskins lost three to the Yanks, took one of three from Boston and split a pair with Washington.

Feller allowed only three hits, but issued seven passes, which led to the A's runs.

The Indians landed on Lester McCrabb, Chubby Dean, Bill Beckman and Bump Hadley for 12 hits, and were never headed after taking the lead in the third.

In the nightcap, Jeff Heath's third-inning homer gave Cleveland its second run and an early lead, but the A's staged a five-hit three-run blast in the fifth. The Indians tied the score in the eighth, on the power of Larry Rosenthal's double, but the A's settled the issue in the ninth when Wally Moses doubled, McCoy was passed, Johnson singled, and Moses came home after Siebert's fly.

While the Tribe was resting today, it became known that Mel Harder may seek an operation to remove three bone chips from his elbow.

* * *

Should he go on the voluntary retired list for repairs, it would solve the question of how to make room on the active list for Cleveland's recent purchase, Pitcher Charles (Red) Embree of the farm at Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Tomorrow night the Tribe is host to the Tigers in the Stadium.

On this day this particular story is bound to be about pitching, and it could emphasize several kinds, all of them good.

It could, for instance, go into detail about Bob Feller's 20th victory or the twin shutouts of Cincinnati by Jim Tobin and Johnny Hutchings of the Boston Braves.

But the biggest palm must go to two elbowers who don't come close to Feller in brilliance.

They are a pair of right-handers, Johnny Niggeling and Bob Harris, and they labor in the comparative obscurity of the St. Louis Browns' Niggeling, a veteran of 36, who was picked up on waivers from Cincinnati winter before last, and Harris, a comparative youngster of 25, tossed in on the Buck Newsom deal two years ago.

Yet they caught the attention of the entire baseball world yesterday by stopping the New York Yankees cold.

Niggeling, in the opener of a double-header, pitched a four-hitter that beat the American league leaders 6-2, and broke Charley Ruffing's winning streak at nine straight. He not only kept Joe DiMaggio hitless for the first time in 17 contests, but was the first pitcher in 84 games able to keep the great Guseppe from getting on base.

Then Harris came along with a handsome two-hitter in the nightcap for a 5-0 shutout, the first Yank blanking since May 30. He also held DiMag without a hit, and completed destruction of another Yankee record—that of not having lost a double-header all season.

Ted Lyons, who didn't walk a man, had 18-hit support from the White Sox in gaining his 9-0 triumph over the Senators.

The Detroit Tigers built up an early lead for Hal Newhouser as he turned back the Boston Red Sox, 6-3.

Mort Cooper, making his first start for the St. Louis Cardinals since June 17, and Lon Warneke, getting his 130th win of the year, combined to hold the Phillies to 11 hits for two 6-1 victories.

Cooper, operated upon June 23 for removal of a bone growth on his pitching arm, showed no signs of after-affects while allowing only six safeties. Warneke turned in a five-hitter

The Dodgers, ending their western trip with a four-game winning string, collected 15 hits in beating the Cubs 10-2.

For the Boston Braves it was five-hit pitching by Tobin and a three-hit job by Hutchings that blanked the Cincinnati Reds, 5-0 and 3-0. The New York Giants relapsed into their losing ways as they bowed to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-4 and 10-4 the latter in only six innings because of the Pennsylvania Sunday curfew.

PAYS FOR PROTEST

CHICAGO—(UP)—Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers was fined $50 for a 13-minute protest in the Dodgers' game Saturday with the Chicago Cubs. President Ford Frick of the National league said today. Durocher delayed the game to protest against an umpire's reversal of a decision.

Opposing Hurlers In Tonight's Game At Fairground

HAL SCHUMACHER

Picked to oppose the great Satchel Paige tonight at the Fairground when a strengthened Liberty Park team meets the Kansas City Monarchs, world colored baseball champions, is "Prince Hal" Schumacher, bespectacled right hander from Evansville of the Three-I league, who is waiting induction into the army. Schumacher won 34 games against three defeats for Owensboro to lead the Kitty League two years ago, and last season, pitching for Evansville, let the Detroit Tigers down with seven hits, winning 7 to 5.

* * * * *

Pro Pitcher Picked For Liberties, Faces Satchel

"Prince Hal" Schumacher will pitch for the Mansfield Liberty Parks baseball team against the Kansas City Monarchs, world colored champs, who will use Satchel Paige on the firing line on the Ohio State league diamond in the Fairgrounds here tonight at 8:30. It will be an exhibition game.

Schumacher led the Kitty league with 34 wins against three defeats for Owensboro in 1939, and last year, pitching for the Evansville Three-I league team, defeated the Detroit Tigers 7 to 5 in an exhibition game, allowing the big leaguers but seven hits in nine innings.

Schumacher has been unbeatable with Vicksburg in the Cotton States league this season, but has been drafteld. The game here tonight will probably be his last before reporting to Uncle Sam. Other pitchers whom Manager Joe Alton of the locals has available to shoot against the colored champs include Hazlett and Bender.

The desire to see the celebrated and highly publicized Satchel Paige pitch, even part of the game, overshadows the ball game itself. Never in the history of colored baseball has any one man so popularized the game as "Ole Satchmo."

In ten Sunday showings "the man who brings the grip" has attracted 230,000 paid customers. Joe DiMaggio, the great Yankee slugger, speaking of Satchel says, "He's the fastest there is." And don't forget DiMaggio faces the blazing fast ball of Bobby Feller on several occasions each summer.

Fans who are fortunate enough to be at the Fairground tonight will readily see that the Monarchs are a Big League club in every respect. They look and act the part.

The Monarch infield of Jimmy Williams, Newt Allen, Rainey Bibbs and Bucky O'Neill is letter perfect and puts on an infield workout which is as good as the game. Power and more power prevails in the gardens, which are patrolled by Willard Brown, the "Colored Babe Ruth." "Marvel Man" Simms and Ted Strong, the latter a star basketball player with the Harlem Globe Trotters, "Steel Arm" Green will catch tonight and with any other club than the Monarchs, he would steal the show with his deadly pegging to bases.

Manager Joe Alton, who will catch for the Parks, has added Outfielder Patterson and Infielder Lockhart from the Ontario semi-pro club, and Nick Weber to his personnel.

Alvin Jones, regular Piedmont league umpire, who has been on sick leave, and Duke Taraschke, former Ohio State league umpire, are being brought here to render decisions.

* * *

Unless all indications fail, a classic long to be remembered will be unveiled in the Fairground tonight and with good weather prevailing, the largest crowd to see a game here in years will be on hand

The line-up:

Monarchs	Liberty Parks
Bibbs, 2b	Campbell, 3b
Allen, ss	Lewis, cf
Strong, rf	Atton, c
Brown, lf	Emmer, lf
Simms, cf	Weber, 1b

MONARCHS WIN TWO

CLEVELAND — (INS)— Satch Paige, whose age is considered to be anywhere from 35 to 41, today had convinced Clevelanders that it's true what they say about the almost legendary Negro pitcher. Paige worked four innings of the nightcap yesterday as the Kansas City Monarchs took a double-header from the St. Louis Stars, and gave five hits, one run, fanned five and walked only one. The Monarchs won, 6-5 and 5-1.

Special Softball Series Scheduled

A three-game series that has all the earmarks of a Mansfield softball championship battle, has been scheduled between Westinghouse with its former Sons of Herman stars, and Mansfield Hardware Co., with a lineup composed largely of last year's All-Stars who hooked up with Sons of Herman in the 1940 title series.

First game is scheduled at Johns Park Thursday at 6 p. m.

Picked for the Hardware team are: Aston, c-of, Fullager, p, K. Ross, 2b, Farrell, 1b, Stichler, ss, W. Lockhart, of, K. Lockhart, of, Balbaugh, r, N. Weber, 3b, Judy, of, F. Carver, p-of, R. Hunt, c, K. Mapes, inf, Lapine, utility and coach.

All Mansfield Hardware players are asked to contact Harold Aston at the East Side Nite club by tomorrow night.

Mutryn and Clowson Pack Winning Punch

Eddie Clouts Homer To Tie Score, Alex Smacks Single, Ending Game

MANSFIELD'S Braves almost kicked a game away yesterday afternoon at the Fairground, but they came roaring back with a ninth-inning two-run rally to snatch a 10 to 9 thriller from the Lima Pandas.

Harry Siegbert drew a walk, but was forced at second by Bill Salem. With Bill Reinka at bat, Salem stole second and continued on to third when Shortstop Bonomo let the throw to second get away from him.

Manager Alex Clowson then replaced Reinka in the batter's box, and the Pandas wisely decided to walk him. But Clowson crossed them up by attempting to bunt, and with the count two strikes and one ball Lima gambled on a third strike and pitched to him.

Mansfield started out to make a walk-away of the game, gaining a 7 to 0 lead in the first three innings.

The Braves picked up three more runs in the second on Bob Kuzava's double over the first base bag, a walk to TeStruth, and singles by Morse and Mutryn.

And they added another run in the third when Salem walked, stole second, and came home on Bobby Ankrum's single.

Kuzava ran into some bad luck in the fifth when ordinary singles too bad hops in the outfield and went for three doubles by Hubbard, Kavanaugh and Kolos. Walks to Drexler and Snoddy and singles by Boskey and Bonomo rounded out a five-run splurge and Lima was back in the ball game.

Rudy Okleson started on the mound for the Braves in the sixth, but was wild, and before Pat Patterson and his sore arm could be rushed to the rescue the Pandas had scored two runs and tied the count at 7 to 7.

Mansfield took the lead again in the last of the sixth when Morse singled, went to second on an error, to third on a wild pitch, and scored on an infield out.

But Lima tied it up with one run in the seventh and went ahead with another in the eighth. For the first inning in the ball game, Lima went down without a hit in the ninth, and they needed several as it later developed.

* * *

For those Braves weren't through yet. They still had that ninth inning rally coming up.

Keefe-Spear Seek Crown

Battle For City Tennis Title Next Sunday.

The firing was hot and heavy and prolonged in The News-Journal City tennis tournament yesterday, and there were some very weary racquet swingers in Mansfield today, but non so weary as Bob Keefe, the table-tennis star.

Keefe advanced to the finals of the men's singles with a five-set victory over Thornton Moore, rallying to take the last two sets after Moore had captured two of the first three.

Moore had all the best of it over the consistent court-covering Keefe in the first set to win 6-2, but Keefe's ability to return all shots with a minimum of error began to make itself known in the second set as he came through to a 6-4 edge.

The next two sets went to deuce with Moore taking the third set at 8-6, and Keefe the fourth at 7-5 Then came the deciding set with Keefe winning 6-4.

After a short rest Keefe attempted to play doubles with Andy Zoll against Larson and Meese, but a long drawn-out first set spelled the end of the day for Mr. Keefe.

Larson-Meese took the first one 14-12, and coasted to a love set victory in the second.

Bob Spear had trouble in battling his way to the finals of the men's singles, downing Lowell Bourns in four deuce sets, 8-6, 4-6, 8-6 and 7-5.

So it will be the hard-hitting No. 1 man from Purdue against the ground covering southpaw from the table courts in the city finals next Sunday.

Semi-finals in men's doubles scheduled this week are: Spear-Enos vs. Bourns-Slabaugh, Wednesday, 5 p. m. Woodlawn; and Ellison-Moore vs. Larson-Meese, Thursday, 5 p. m. Woodlawn.

The mixed doubles and women's singles get under way this week on the following schedule·

Mixed doubles—Arron-Spear vs. Woodlawn; Fisher - Alderson vs. Moore-Moore, Monday, 5 p. m., Pittenger-Perman, Tuesday, 5 p. m., Maple lake; Fisher-Franzen vs. Gregoria-Zoll, Wednesday, 5 p. m., Maple lake; Winegartner-Enos vs Olin-Quinlan, Thursday, 5 p. m., Maple lake.

Women's singles — Winegartner vs Gregoria, Wednesday 5 p. m., Johns Park; Arron vs. Fisher, Friday 5 p. m., Johns Park.

The name "Winegartner" appears in the lists for the first time today, but it isn't a late entry. It's the new name of the defending women's champion, Lois Shuey, who returned to town last night after a 750-mile honeymoon trip.

Junior players in both boys and girls divisions are asked to get in touch with Vic Alderson immediately for their schedule of play this week at Johns park.

A forfeit by Them to Butler has rounded out the pairings for semi-final play in junior singles.

Red Birds Set Pace With Double Win

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The Columbus Red Birds are in first place in the American Association today—that coveted goal reached by Sunday's double-barreled victory over Indianapolis, 5 to 1 and 4 to 3.

* * *

And, although Burt Shotten's crew has only a one-game edge, if the pitching holds up it is doubtful if Minneapolis, Louisville or Kansas City can oust the Birds.

Preacher Roe set the Indians down with five hits in the first game and Harry Brecheen registered victory No. 12 in the nightcap.

Kansas City, trying to fight back from a slump cooperated with the Birds by knocking Minneapolis over twice, 9 to 7 and 6 to 2. Louisville, the pacesetter in mid-July, slid back to fourth place and surrender third to the Blues when Toledo whipped the Colonels twice, 3 to 1 and 2 to 1.

St. Louis defeated Milwaukee in the other Sunday bargain bill, 4 to 3 and 7 to 4.

Liberties Win In Tune-Up

Hazlett Stops Ontario With Four Bingles.

The Liberty Parks trounced Ontario 6-2 yesterday at Liberty Park in a tune-up tussle for tonight's game with the Kansas City Monarchs at the Fairground.

Hurler Hazlett worked himself out of the clutches with some nice pitching as he fanned 12 Ontario stick wielders, walked three. Lewis with three out of five and "Tubby" Freiheit, with a double and a single, paced the Parkmen's attack.

* * *

Hazlett gave up four scattered hits while the Liberties were getting to Petie Beer for 11 bingles. Beer whiffed four.

The Liberty Park-Monarch fray will start at 8:30 p. m.

NEW METHODS GIVE DEFENSES HARDER STEEL

Substitute Alloys Are Found To Be More Efficient In Fabricating.

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—The metal industry is keeping pace with the demands of the national defense program by perfecting new and better methods of fabricating the steel used in the manufacture of airplanes, tanks, battleships and guns.

Research scientists have developed superior processes for hardening the surfaces of steel plates used in war armament and have discovered substitute alloys which are proving more efficient than metals previously used in war machinery.

William H. Eisenman, secretary of the American Society for Metals, disclosed that the great majority of the nation's leading metallurgists have been drafted to work on the perfection of new steel fabricating methods.

Eisenman, who was in Southern California prior to the annual Western Metal Congress, which brought about 3,000 metallurgists and technicians together for a five-day conference, said that highly satisfactory progress has been made in the attempt to improve metal fabricating.

Eisenman revealed that "shot blasting," formerly used only to harden surfaces of large springs in automobiles and locomotives, now is being applied to the smaller springs of motors in aircraft and other military transportation units.

"The shot blast bombards the metal parts with tiny steel balls," he said. "These hammer the surface to a hard, smooth finish which possesses great resiliency."

A new form of gas has been found, Eisenman said, which is forced into heat-treatment ovens to form a protective "blanket" for metals in temperatures as high as 2,500 degrees, Fahrenheit.

This new "blanket", he disclosed, prevents loss of carbon from the steel and maintains the high quality of the product. With this protection, modern war tanks will be able to withstand terrific heat and still keep a high degree of safety.

Without the "blanket," carbon often escapes through surface oxidation when the temperature zooms to the upper brackets.

WATER BARREL REDUCES RATS

AXTELL, Kas.—(U.P.)—A steel water barrel has turned out to be a good rat trap on the farm of Earl and Paul Landreth near here.

The mechanism of the trap is very simple, the Landreths say. The rats run up a board which leans against the barrel. On gaining the top, they reach out to get a drink of water. Then comes the blow. The water is just out of reach. The rats lean over too far, lose their balance and fall in.

They drown like rats. In fact the Landreths get rid of about 50 that way in one week.

BOY SETTLES DOWN TO EARTH

RENO, Nev.—(U.P.)—The little boy with his feet in the back of everybody's chair at the circus first wanted to be an apprentice liontimer, but when Capt. Nobel Hamiter, trainer, was bitten in the last half of his act, the little boy decided it would be better to learn in another department.

"The only thing I can really do," he observed, "is to fall off the bicycle like the monkey."

Craig Rules Golf World

By LARRY HAUCK

GIRARD, O.—(AP)—Craig Wood, covering up his 39 years with youthful vigor, today reigned over the world of golf as a climax to one of the greatest comebacks in the history of the game.

Winner of the national open and masters' tournaments but eliminated in the P. G. A. classic as he sought the coveted "triple," the blond veteran took the shortest detour to his goal.

Shooting nine under par, he walloped Vic Ghezzi, the pro king, in a special 72-hole match for the unofficial world championship. Besides the mythical title, the 5 and 4 victory gave Wood $2,500.

The Mamaroneck, N. Y., star left Ghezzi and the week-end gallery gasping with an opening 63 and his resultant seven-hole lead stood virtually undented to the end. The sizzling round shattered the Mahoning Country club's 12-year record of 64, set by Home Pro Tom Raklets, and beat par by seven strokes.

Ghezzi never got under way, either on the greens or with his famed short game. The match ended on the 68th green with Wood dropping a three-footer for a half after Ghezzi's second shot rolled off the carpet.

They played out the 72 holes with the victor carding 63-70-68-70—271 and the New Jersey pro 71-69-68-69—277. For the 68, Wood had an eagle, 14 birdies and 8 bogeys. Ghezzi collected 13 birds and 10 one-overs.

The loser, 10 years Wood's junior and once his pupil, said "That 63 was too much for me."

Craig's next start will be in the $5,000 Rochester, N. Y., Times-Union tournament Aug. 15-17.

Stroh's Sink Wooster Club

Joe Mayer Breaks Par By Three Strokes.

Mansfield Stroh's Bohemian Beers golf team swamped the Riceland Country club team at Wooster yesterday 36-4, but the victory wasn't as easily won as the score would indicate.

All matches were close, and most of them were decided on the last few holes.

Joe Mayer turned in a sparkling three-under-par 67 for the 18-hole layout for medal honors. On the first nine he had five birdies for a 33.

* * *

A return match with Riceland is booked at Possum Run Aug. 24, while the Stroh's are also booked for a match in the meantime at Mt Vernon.

Army Hires A Woman's Editor

Taking cognizance of women's opinions in present day affairs, the war department has enlisted the aid of a woman, Mrs. William P. Hobby, executive vice president of the Houston Post, to be the United States Army's woman's editor. Mrs. Hobby says that her task will be "to tell the story of the army to women along the lines they are more interested in, personalized news of their sons, husbands, brothers and sweethearts."

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — "My Life With Caroline." Screenplay by John Van Druten and Arnold Belgard from play by Louis Verneuil and Georges Berr. Directed by Lewis Milestone. Principals: Ronald Colman, Ann Lee, Charles Winninger, Reginald Gardiner, Gilbert Roland, Katherine Leslie, Hugh O'Connell, Murray Alper, Matt Moore.

This could be subtitled, "Milestone Takes a Holiday." The director, best known for such serious, earthy, or lusty pieces as "The Front Page," "All Quiet on the Western Front," and "Of Mice and Men," here tries his hand at light and frothy comedy.

Caroline is a pretty, giddy, and romantically susceptible young wife married to a suave, but very busy, publisher who understands her foibles, including her propensity for falling in love with romantic young men.

As the story opens, Caroline (Lee) is madly in love with a handsome Latin (Roland) and is all set to fly back home to break the news to her husband. At the airport, having received her wire that she has something important to tell him, the patient spouse appears. This, of course, is Colman, suave, distinguished and thoroughly master of the situation.

Watching Caroline's fond goodbye to her new lover, Anthony turns to the audience and gets chummy. He knows what's going on, he says, and he'll tell us all about in a minute. He does, and so we dissolve into the story of "his life with Caroline."

Before the handsome Latin, it was the understanding sculptor, Paul (Gardiner). And there was the same spirit of deathless romance between Caroline and Paul. It was all very cricket, of course, and Caroline was going to tell Anthony of her pending divorce and elopement. But Anthony found out first, and by devious clever means—especially clever in a husband who "didn't understand" his wife—thwarted all developments.

The picture is consistently light, consistently frothy, consistently suave and gay—almost too much so. There are times when a little more action and less talk, preferably on the slapstick side, would be welcome. Perhaps the trouble is that giddy wives (even when played as captivatingly as Anna Lee plays Caroline) make patience-taxing screen material for these important times. As the customer in the next row observed, "What's he want to bother keeping her for, anyway?"

Winninger, as the father-in-law who trails patiently in the romantic wake, worried lest his future bread be unbuttered by Caroline's new prospect, is capital, and Gardiner and Roland do well by their suitor's roles. O'Connell's butler is the kind that ought to be in every home—for laughs.

BOOTS POFFENBERGER

By ROMNEY WHEELER

BUFORD, Ga.—(AP)—The way Cletus Poffenberger feels about it now, it will be all right with him if he never pitches another game in organized baseball.

Plain-spoken Mr. Poffenberger, nicknamed Boots, is under 90-day suspension in the Southern Association for sounding off on an umpire's decision and backing it up with a fast ball which zoomed off the arbiter's chest protector. That dropped him from Nashville's pitching staff for the balance of the 1941 season and first 15 days of 1942.

But Boots isn't looking for any sympathy. The big fellow, whose screwball tendencies got him in difficulties with Detroit and later with Brooklyn, signed with the Buford semi-pro Shoemakers. And as far as he is concerned, he'd just as soon stay here from now on.

Here's How.

"How did I get let out by Detroit? Well, I had a row over money with 'em, just like I did with Brooklyn. They never did pay me what I was worth, and they said I never gave them all I had. So what! The most I ever got in the big show was $500 a month. That's for five months. And the other seven months you don't draw a dime."

Poffenberger thinks the Buford team, sponsored by the Bona Allen Shoe company, has an ideal set-up.

"I'd like to stay here. I'd work in the plant in the off season, and play baseball in the summer. I tell you, this outfit has a real first-class team. They treat you right.

"What about Nashville? Well, Nashville still holds my contract. I don't know just what I'll do yet. I'll see what Nashville offers next spring. If I can do better over here, I'd just as soon ask for voluntary retirement. My wife likes it here."

Boots won his first start for Buford, beating a nearby semi-pro textile team 4-1.

Boots doesn't care to discuss the escapades which earned him his reputation as one of baseball's screwballs. His career with Detroit in 1937-38 and Brooklyn in 1939 is so much water over the dam. He wound up on the suspended list after jumping Brooklyn in mid-1939, was re-instated through efforts of Larry Gilbert in 1940.

Good Record.

He had a good year under Gilbert, winning 26 and losing 9 to help Nashvill win the Southern Association pennant and later the Dixie Series. Gilbert, pleased with the reformation, tried to peddle him to a big league club last winter, but found no takers.

* * *

"I don't expect to get back in the big-time," says Poffenberger, "and I sure don't care to kick around the minor leagues until I'm worn out. I'd just as soon stay right here with Buford."

* * *

Poffenberger now is headed west with the team on a 6,000-mile swing which is to include semi-pro tournaments at Denver, Houston, Tex., and Wichita, Kas., where Buford twice has won national championships. He thinks he'll be eligible to pitch in the Denver Post's tournament, but must watch from the bench at Houston and Wichita where his current Southern league suspension bars him.

"That suspension's got me now," he says. "But look out next year. If I stay with Buford I'll really go to town."

REPORTS TO REDS

CINCINNATI—(NS)—Eddie Lukon, 20-year-old rightfielder of the Knoxville Southern Association club, will report to the Cincinnati Reds this week, General Manager Warren Giles announced today. Lukon, obtained for cash and another player to be sent to Knoxville before next March 1, has hit 23 homers this season and is batting .306.

DAN NOLAN DIES

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Death followed an emergency operation for Dan J. Nolan, 58, Cleveland boxing commission member for the last five years. Formerly a music company executive, he once served as president of the National Music Merchants' association.

Sam Barry Rumored To Succeed Jones

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The Los Angeles Times said today it had learned from an authoritative source that Justin M. (Sam) Barry had accepted the position of head coach of football at the University of Southern California.

The paper said that all that remained to make his appointment as Coach Howard Jones' successor official was the signature of President Rufus B. Von KleinSmid to the contracts, forthcoming within a few days.

* * *

Jones died July 27. Barry, 48, had worked with him for more than 20 years, 16 of them at U. S. C. He has been the Trojan basketball and baseball coach.

FANCY FIELDER

DETROIT—(AP)—Johnny Gorsica is perhaps Detroit's best fielding pitcher, and there's a reason: Gorsica broke into baseball as a first baseman with Beckley, W. Va.

THEATERS

Rollicking Comedy.

"The Bride Came C. O. D.," playing at the Ohio with Bette Davis and James Cagney in the starring roles, has one humorous complication after another. Cagney plays an aviator, hired to fly an eloping girl and her sweetheart, enacted by Jack Carson, to Las Vegas to be married. Believing he can get more money from the girl's father by returning her, unmarried, Cagney decides to kidnap the bride. The plane grounds in the desert and a battle between the aviator and girl ensue as the latter attempts to return to her fiance. Harry Davenport and Eugene Pallette are featured.

Dinsey Novelties.

Walt Disney's "The Reluctant Dragon," showing at the Madison is an innovation in Disney entertainment for it not only introduces new cartoon characters in a series of novelty sequences but it shows the Disney studio at work in practically every phase of animated cartoon production. Robert Benchley plays a visitor shown about the studio, and Frances Gifford is cast as a studio worker. The novelties, in technicolor, include a satire entitled, "How to Ride a Horse," another, dealing with an infant Einstein, called "Baby Weems," and Kenneth Graham's story, "The Reluctant Dragon." Cesar Romero is featured in "Dance Hall," the co-attraction.

Lavish Spectacle.

Hedy Lemarr, Judy Garland and James Stewart help top the cast in the elaborate spectacle, "Ziegfeld Girl," playing at the Ritz. Lana Turner is also featured in the story of three girls and what success in a great musical show did for them. Roy Rogers in "Nevada City," is the companion picture.

Louisiana Escapade.

Marlene Dietrich takes a spill in the mud as she encounters a rough riverboat captain in "The Flame of New Orleans," showing at the Park. Posing as a continental noblewoman she invades New Orleans in search of a husband and then is forced to play the part of another imposter to cover up a slip in her manner. Roland Young portrays the millionaire who succumbs to her charms, and Bruce Cabot has the role of a river captain who discovers her true character. Mischa Auer, Andy Devine and Laura Hope Crews are in the cast. "Petticoat Politics," with Roscoe Karns is the second attraction.

Before the war the United States imported more than a million dollars worth of cloves and vanilla beans from Madagascar every year.

MOTORS AND RAILS CLIMB, STEELS DROP

Bullish Tendencies Slowed Down By Uncertain War News In Far East.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Rails and motors did fairly well in today's stock market but faltering steels tended to dim the speculative horizon. Dealings slowed after a moderately active start and, near the second hour, fractional price variations were the rule.

Many with bullish ideas, brokers reported, still were inclined to proceed warily in the matter of new commitments pending more light on the Far Eastern crisis, the German-Russian war and the forthcoming domestic tax bill.

Followers of the steels studied summaries indicating second quarter profits of 24 producers in this field fell 24.7 per cent under the initial three months due to mounting taxes and wages.

Interest was shown in the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said the industry expected further cuts in output because of the growing shortage of scrap.

New demands for steel from Great Britain, it was added, have contributed to the unsettlement of mill schedules.

had suddenly come up with our boat so far from shore and with no means of locomotion."

A 40-foot power boat owned by Russell Coleman of Salem discovered the drifting party and towed them to shore.

Slough said Hill displayed a flash of humor during the critical period when the men were struggling to get into life preservers. They were having a great deal of difficulty and Hill announced: "The first thing I'm going to do when we get back to shore is learn to get into one of these things."

The party had been attending a beach outing for 57 Empire executives held at Gilmore manor near Huron.

POLICE PROBE SUICIDE PACT

Seek To Solve Tragedy In Which Soldier And Girl Died.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(U.P.)—Authorities today sought to solve a tragedy involving a soldier and his girl.

The bodies of Private Kenneth D. Schroder, 22, and Miss Virginia Schneider, 22, were found hanging from a pipe in Miss Schneider's hotel room last night. They had committee suicide together, a coroner's inquest decided.

Schroder was a member of the Nebraska National Guard and was inducted into federal service last January. His home was in Hooper, Neb., and Miss Schneider, his sweetheart of long standing, came from Fremont, nearby.

6 INJURED IN STRIKE BATTLE

Riot Staged By CIO Timbermen On Pennsylvania Highway.

UNIONTOWN, Pa.—(U.P.)—Forces of striking CIO timbermen and a non-striking independent union waged a pitched battle on the National highway, at Addison, Pa., today, injuring at least six workers and damaging 15 trucks.

The rioting broke out as a "convoy" of trucks attempted to haul loads of mine timber through a picket line of the CIO Lumber, Timber and Sawmill Workers Organizing Committee, which called a three-state walkout in the timber industry July 21.

HEADS WAR VETS

600 Carpenters Idle as AFL Craftsmen Go Back To Jobs at Sandusky, Ravenna.

(By Associated Press)

SANDUSKY—Construction was resumed today at northern Ohio's two big army ordnance plants—Plum Brook and Ravenna—as 3,200 holidaying AFL craftsmen returned to work, but a wage dispute still kept 600 AFL carpenters off the job at Plum Brook.

The carpenters walked out at the plant near Sandusky Saturday in an effort to enforce demands for a 25-cent hourly increase in their $1.12½ wage. Union leaders said there have been no negotiations toward settlement of the dispute, and ordnance officers indicated the pay issues would be referred to the war department.

Meanwhile the return of 1,200 craftsmen who remained from their jobs Saturday because of a reduction in their overtime rate permitted resumption of construction at the Plum Brook TNT and DNT plant, army spokesmen said. Idleness of carpenters will not impede work for six or seven days, they added.

Two thousand AFL craftsmen also returned to the $57,000,000 Ravenna shell-loading plant after a Saturday holiday resulting from the overtime issue. Leaders of these craftsmen said the unionists protested the reduction of overtime pay from double to time and one-half on work beyond the normal 40 hours.

Union officials instructed the holidaying employes to return today in view of a July 22 agreement with the war department on a uniform time-and-a-half for overtime rate. Ravenna officers said members of some AFL craft unions indicated they would not work more than 40 hours this week pending further protest.

Two Columbus residents went down in widely separated lakes. Mrs. Ira C. Graham, 31, fell from an outboard motor boat in Buckeye lake near Thornport when waves rocked the craft. She was riding with her husband and another couple.

The other Columbus victim was Gino Perna, 20, son of a baker. The highway patrol reported that Perna, who couldn't swim, lost his hold while clinging to a boat rowed by a companion in Indian lake near Lakeview. Perna's fiancee, Jeannie Davis of Delaware, leaped into the water in a futile rescue attempt.

Thrown from a speedboat, Raymond Nicols, 25, of Elyria, was drowned in Lake Erie near Lorain. His bride of three months and another woman also went overboard but were rescued.

The body of Howard Clark, 27, of Youngstown was recovered from Lake Milton several hours after he fell from a boat.

The bather drowned was Ord Clark, 26, of Stow. The gravel pit was near his home.

The body of John Yuhas, 37, was found in Lake Erie near Fairport by two bathers. It lay in about three feet of water, about 75 feet from shore. A pile of clothing, identified as belonging to the Fairport resident, was found on the beach.
